Assumes Full Responsibility For Watergate

Nixon Promises No Whitewash

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon, claiming he was misled by his staff, has assumed "full responsibility" for the Watergate bugging and indicated a special prosecutor may be named to investigate the worst crisis of his presidency.

Speaking to the nation Monday night—10½ months after the bugging of the Democratic National Headquarters and after spending a long weekend at Camp David—Nixon gravely promised: "There will be no whitewash at the White House."

Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst and top White House aides E.R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman and John W. Dean III all resigned as a result of the Watergate case Monday. Defense Secretary Elliot L. Richardson was appointed to replace Kleindienst.

Nixon said he had invested full authority for the Watergate investigation in Richardson, and he would leave up to him whether to name a "special supervising prosecutor" to assist.

Nixon said he accepted the responsibility for the Watergate affair because in any organization "the man at the top must bear the responsibility."

Nixon, brushing away tears, stopped by the White House press office, where reporters had asked literally thousands of questions about Watergate during the months, after the 24-minute address and said: "Just continue to give me hell when you think I'm wrong."

In his telecast, he imputed no wrongdoing to Kleindienst, Haldeman and Ehrlichman, but gave no such assurance about Dean.

Nixon said that during the 1972 presidential campaign his overriding concern was the goal of "bringing peace to America and the world." He said that at the time of the bugging he was getting a few days rest after his summit trip to the Soviet Union.

"Until March this year, I remained convinced that the denials were true and that the charges of involvement by members of the White House staff were false," Nixon said.

He said "new information" came to him that there was a "real possibility" that some of the charges were true, and on March 21 he personally assumed responsibility for a new inquiry.

"I believed the reports I was getting," Nixon said, referring to an early investigation of Watergate conducted for him by Dean, which denied further White House involvement beyond two low-level aides arrested soon after the bugging. Nixon implied that the persons involved in Watergate did so out of zeal, a belief that what they were doing was right, and because they were reacting to "the excesses or expected excesses of the other side."

"For the fact that alleged improper actions took place within the White House or within my campaign organization, the easiest course would be for me to blame those to whom I delegated the responsibility to run the campaign. But that would be a cowardly thing to do."

Related stories on pages 4 and 5.

"I will not place the blame on subordinates—on people whose zeal exceeded their judgment, and who may have done wrong in a cause they deeply believed to be right," Nixon said.

"In any organization, the man at the top must bear the responsibility. That responsibility, therefore, belongs here, in this office. I accept it."

"And I pledge to you tonight, everything in my power to ensure that the guilty are brought to justice, and that such abuses are purged from our political processes in the years to come, long after I have left this office."

Already Watergate has resulted in the departure of perhaps as many as 10 persons. Former Attorney General John N. Mitchell resigned as campaign manager two weeks after the bugging, claiming personal reasons.

Former deputy campaign manager Jeb Stuart Magruder resigned as assistant commerce secretary-designate last week, and acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III quit. Nixon's appointments secretary, Dwight L. Chapin, and special counsel, earlier this year to take jobs in private industry.

Charles W. Colson, resigned

the Reelection of the President, Gordon Strachan, formerly of Haldeman's liaison with the chief of security for Nixon's Committee to Re-elect the President, resigned as general federal grand jury that counsel of the U.S. Information Agency just before Nixon McCord and the five others has been hearing witnesses on the spoke.

Seven men already have Watergate episode for the past pleaded or been found guilty of several weeks. The Democrats, conspiracy in the Watergate meanwhile, have filed a $6.4 million suit against the Liddy, a former assistant reelection committee, and have district attorney for Dutchess County and chief financial persons linked with the case.

Forgive, Forget ... Not on Hill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Members of Congress—even Republicans—showed no disposition today to forgive and forget Watergate. Some—even Republicans—said President Nixon still has more to explain before he can put it all behind him.

Demands continued from the Capitol that Nixon appoint a special prosecutor who has never served under him. Many said that was too crucial a function to leave to the discretion of Elliot L. Richardson, the attorney general-designate, although the Richardson appointment was widely welcomed.

Senate Democratic Whip Robert C. Byrd, W.Va., said the special prosecutor must be appointed at once "to avoid any suspicion of a whitewash."

"The administration must not investigate itself," Byrd said.

Republican Sen. William Saxbe, Ohio, critical for months of Nixon's handling of Watergate, was not satisfied by Monday night's television address. "I am very sympathetic with his position of trying to get things done with the difficulties he has," Saxbe said. "But I don't know any more about the Watergate than I did."

Congress' initial reaction is important because how Congress and the nation accept Nixon's explanation that he was misled and poorly served by overzealous aides can determine much—whether Nixon himself will retain effectiveness or "credibility" during the remaining three years of his term.

Before Nixon spoke, Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, who is believed likely to seek the GOP presidential nomination in 1976 as a liberal Republican, said Nixon could restore his "credibility" but "it depends on everything he says and does, particularly in the next few days."

Sen. Marlow W. Cook, R-Ky., said the next few months "will make it clear whether or not there was prior knowledge" by Nixon of the illegal plans to disrupt the Democrats.

Following the speech, some Republicans applauded. "Most statesmanlike," said George Bush, GOP national chairman.

"A most courageous act," said House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford, Mich., who a few hours earlier had issued a statement pointedly noting "that no Republican member of Congress was in any way involved in the Watergate affair."

Democrats were less charitable.

Rep. Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., Mass., the House Democratic leader, said Nixon in his speech admitted "that there have occurred payoffs, bugging, coverups, denials, fraud, lying, bribes and break-ins."

Said Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y.: "There is a concerted effort now to portray Mr. Nixon as above this whole mess. It won't wash. His closest advisors, his cabinet appointees, his personal attorney, even his own brother have been involved in one scandal after another."

Meanwhile, in Huron, Ohio, Democratic governors, often reluctant to enter national politics, have called on President Nixon to turn the Watergate investigation over to an independent prosecutor.

The Democratic governors' caucus, with 16 of 31 members on hand, unanimously demanded at the close of a two-day meeting Monday that President Nixon, in effect, get out of the Watergate investigation and turn it over to an impartial special prosecutor chosen by a qualified nonpartisan group such as the American Bar Association.

Reaction of Area Residents

By MATT SPIRENG

KINGSTON — "It seems to be like a bowl of spaghetti; you don't know where the beginning or the end is," "I'm numbed by the whole thing."

It was thus that two Kingston area residents reacted Monday afternoon to the resignations of Attorney General Richard Kleindienst and three top White House staff members, apparently in connection with the Watergate bugging scandal.

But despite the fact that it is the present Republican administration that is on the hot seat as a result of Watergate, a majority of those interviewed on Wall Street in Kingston indicated that they feel it is the whole political system which is at fault.

"I'm pretty skeptical of politicians to begin with," said Jack Fleming of Kingston. "It could be that both parties have been engaging in such practices."

"Things like Watergate have been happening all along, and both parties have probably been guilty," Robert B. Rossler of Rosendale told The Freeman.

Nevertheless, a number of persons indicated they think that the high level resignations point to wrongdoing on the part of those who resigned—Kleindienst, H. R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman and John W. Dean III.

"The resignations should be expected if they have any honor," said one New Paltz woman.

"The fact that they've resigned indicates they think it best for the administration that they not be there, and it perhaps points to the fact that they were involved in Watergate," said a Woodstock man, who added, "I think it's most important that the truth prevail. It's only then that we can move ahead."

Others, however, said they feel the country is losing "good men" as a result of Watergate. "I think the whole situation is unfortunate," said one Kingston woman, who stressed: "But worse was done by the Democrats."

Special

"The whole thing is like kids playing with marbles," said another Kingston woman. "It's not as serious as it's made out to be, and if it could somehow be dropped it would be better for both parties."

John Brugmann of Kingston said he thinks the men who have resigned are being "used as scapegoats." "I think it (the Watergate bugging scandal) goes all the way to the top," Brugmann added, explaining that "the top" means Nixon himself.

Although the majority interviewed said that they feel Nixon should not be blamed in connection with Watergate, one Dutchess County resident said, "I think the next man who should resign for the good of the country should be the President."

Another Kingston area resident put it just the opposite: "I hope they don't blame Nixon; anyone can get stabbed in the back."

reactions were, many said that the whole Watergate scandal has broadened the credibility gap between government and the people.

Predictions as to the long range effects of Watergate varied, but most agreed that it is a black mark against the political system. "We've lost respect throughout the world as the result of this incident," one man said.

Nevertheless, a note of optimism was injected by one area woman who said she feels the present scandal and resultant disclosures will in the long run result in an end to "secrecy in the government."

Congress Fusses and Fumes, But Controls Are Extended

WASHINGTON (UPI) —

After much fussing and fuming, Congress has given President Nixon authority to control wages and prices for another year.

Final congressional passage came late Monday afternoon, and Nixon signed it into law just two hours before the Economic Stabilization Act would have expired at midnight.

The bill extends until April 30, 1974, Nixon's discretionary power to control the economy, increases of 1½ per cent or more on major products.

The legislation was passed after weeks of Democratic and Republican infighting and controls.

At one time, the House Banking Committee had reported out a bill that would have rolled all prices, interest rates and rents back to Jan. 10 levels.

and placed them under a ceiling.

The final bill, however, contains no freezes, rollbacks or rent controls, although it does contain some significant amendments that were strongly opposed by Republicans and some Democrats.

The major amendments in the compromise bill would: —Make public the information that companies with more than $250 million a year in sales must give the Cost of Living Council to justify price fixing the rich.

They said such loopholes allow corporations and the rich to escape paying $60 billion in taxes each year.

Treasury Secretary George Shultz promised that the House Ways and Means Committee cites a taxpayer would be $45,358—a tax rate of 16 per cent, or about the same rate as a $10,000-a-year secretary pays.

Under the change Shultz proposed, the tax would be $64,620—a rate of about 23 per cent.

The final vote was 267 to 115, paid on income which benefits with the pro and con votes from preferential treatment in spread among both Democrats the tax code—loophole income, and Republicans. Some 153 Democrats and 114 Republicans

On the tax front, Congressional liberals are complaining that the administration's new tax to how much a taxpayer can benefit from tax shelters.

An example Shultz provided in his testimony Monday before the House Ways and Means Committee cites a taxpayer with oil investments, plus $175,000 in earnings, and $100,000 in profits from sale of the stocks.

Under current law, his taxes would be $45,358—a tax rate of 16 per cent, or about the same rate as a $10,000-a-year secretary pays.

Under the change Shultz proposed, the tax would be $64,620—a rate of about 23 per cent.

Lions Expo Opens Tonight

The 26th annual Kingston Lions Exposition and Home Show opens tonight at 7 p.m. at the New York State Armory on Manor Avenue to kickoff five successive evenings of fun, excitement and prizes.

Preceding the opening of this year's Expo, called "Spring Festival," will be the largest parade in Expo history, with more than 600 persons in the line of march. Officiating in both the parade and at ribbon-cutting ceremonies will be Miss Ulster County of 1973, Frances Ilona Tomshaw of Kingston.

Miss Thomshaw, 19, will also take her place on opening night in one of the numerous booths to be at "Spring Festival." Also included among the booths at the Expo will be one explaining the services provided by Ulster County public libraries associated with the Mid-Hudson Library System and the Ulster County Library Association.

Expo will be open from 7 to 10:30 p.m. nightly, and will conclude on Saturday with the drawing of the $2,500 grand prize which every ticket holder has a chance to win.

Last year, crowds topped 18,000, and there is every indication that that total will be exceeded this year at the Lions major fund-raising event. Funds from the event go toward many worthwhile projects in Ulster County.

In addition to the $2,500 grand prize at Expo, numerous other prizes will be awarded, bringing the total to over $4,000. Featured entertainment at Expo will include tonight the Amerscot Highland Pipe Band, a fashion show on Wednesday, Country and Western music on Thursday with Tex Larabee and others, a YMCA Triangle Club demonstration of physical fitness exercises on Friday, and Rock Night on Saturday.

Special attraction to be at Expo each night include a Kingston City Schools Consolidated art show, a simulated park and swimming pool with nightly demonstrations by the YMCA, a "Saugerties Village" display, the New York State Conservation Council's Education Trailer, and "Twenty a Bird" — an Air Force T-37 jet pilot trainer.

So for one or more evenings of fun and excitement, the New York State Armory is the place to be each night this week.

'Troubled Waters' Dominate Session

By CARL GRAHAM

HURLEY
Drainage water and drinking water occupied a major portion of the agenda Monday night's meeting of the Hurley Town Board.

The board accepted the recommendation of Chris Larios, town engineer, that developers of the Holly Hills subdivision in West Hurley be required to install a 15-inch drainage culvert in the subdivision before the town releases escrow funds. The developers, George Schonger and Peter Weider, had offered to install a 12-inch pipe if the board would release $2,000 being held in escrow for satisfactory completion of work in the subdivision. The present pipe, which carries street runoff to a nearby brook, has been blocked for some time and has caused serious water backup in the subdivision. Installation is scheduled to be completed by June 1.

Supervisor George Schroeder reported that he and Winfred Snyder, highway superintendent, had met with corresponding officials of the Town of Ulster to solve a drainage problem on Sheryl Street in Elmendorf Heights, where dirt fill behind two houses had blocked water runoff and had prevented a drainage culvert from functioning properly. The joint action was necessary because the problem involved lands belonging to both towns.

Schroeder, Snyder, and Councilman Walter J. Rose, chairman of the highway committee, said they would visit Wall Street in West Hurley today (Tuesday) to investigate a water runoff problem that has been in existence there for some time.

A public hearing will be held in the Ulster County Office Building in Kingston at 11 a.m. on Monday, May 7, to consider the application of the Hudson Valley Water Company for a rate increase for the area it serves on Pine Street and Hurley Ridge. The company had requested the increase effective April 1 but the Public Service Commission ordered any increase held in abeyance until July 29, pending the result of a public hearing.

Another public hearing will be held by the Department of Environmental Conservation in the Hurley Town hall at 11 a.m. on Wednesday, May 23 to consider the application of the Rolling Meadows Water Corporation to buy the Elmendorf Heights Water Company and its supply wells for interconnection between the two developments. The workshop adjacent to the town Rolling Meadows area is now served by individual wells. Anyone wishing to speak at the public hearing must make written application to the DEC in Albany before May 14 to be included on the agenda. The board tabled for further study two of three recommendations by the Revenue Sharing Advisory Committee headed by Philip Sinagra. The committee's suggestion that funds be allocated for a workshop adjacent to the town Rolling Meadows area is now being held in West Hurley for highway equipment maintenance was referred to the board's highway committee for study and a recommendation that the town purchase a second patrol car for the constabulary was turned over to the constabulary committee. A third suggestion, that $1,000 be voted to the town recreation committee for summer recreation programs, was approved. Schroeder noted that the committee had also received $991 in state revenue sharing funds.

The board accepted with regret the resignation of Dr. J. R. Wood as chairman of the town planning board, effective immediately. In his letter of resignation, Wood noted that he had been transferred to Owego and had already begun work there. The board made no move to replace him.

Schroeder reported that the town had received $26,127 in revenue sharing funds in April, including $18,256.50 in state per capita aid and $7,880.50 in federal revenue sharing funds.

Ellenville Village Board: Zoning for Condominiums Approved

By WADE BURKHART

ELLENVILLE — The Ellenville Village Board approved the zoning amendments needed for an ambitious high-rise condominium development, approved the village's 1973-74 budget, and barred the Ellenville landfill to commercial haulers and all but village residents at its special meeting Monday night.

The board had two members on vacation at its last meeting, and had adjourned public hearings on all three matters until the Monday night special meeting.

The amendments sought by Frank Sahler, a Town of Wawarsing councilman, so he could put up his high-rise condominium were a change on the zoning map so that his 7.1 acre parcel on Spring Street in Ellenville would be zoned entirely for apartments, and a change in village zoning allowing the construction of high-rise buildings up to 20 stories in apartment zoned areas.

The board approved both amendments, but set a one-year time limit on their approval. According to the board resolution, the action will be rescinded if Sahler does not make a building start within a year. Sahler agreed to the restriction without reservation.

The board vote was preceded by a presentation on the project by Sahler's architectural and planning firm representative Frederick Calabrese, of the New York City-based firm of Vergilio Calabrese Associates Inc.

As explained by Calabrese, Stonebreak Apartments will be a 17-story condominium, set atop a four-story, partially-underground parking area. There will be 240 units, with 160 of these one-bedroom, and aimed at senior citizens. Of the remaining units, 16 will be of three bedrooms, and 64 will be two-bedroom. The selling price for the units will range from $26,000 to $40,000. It is anticipated that the new Condominium, when built, will generate nearly $100,000 a year in tax revenues for the village, and over $132,000 yearly for the Ellenville Central School District.

Sahler must still seek some additional variances from the zoning board of appeals; the Ellenville Planning Board has already approved his site plan.

The approved 1973-74 village budget was raised slightly from that presented at the original public hearing, but increases in revenues equalled the raise and the tax hike for village residents will remain the same. The general fund total now stands at $683,665.61. The tax hike will be $2.94 per thousand of assessed valuation, for a total tax rate of $38.12 per thousand.

The new landfill regulations, approved subject to final approval of the village attorney, make the village landfill off limits to all commercial haulers and anyone not a village resident. Some of the residents present protested the move to bar commercial haulers from the landfill, saying it would raise their rates. However, Trustee Stanley Kaplan said the village could not afford to operate the landfill under the present set up, and Trustee Sol Sadler, who offered the resolution, indicated this was the first step in closing down the landfill entirely.

The board also approved Mrs. Mary Muller's no smoking request. Henceforth, there will be no smoking at public meetings in the Village Hall. Mrs. Muller, an Ellenville resident, had petitioned the board earlier on the smoking question.

City School Voters Go to Polls

The polls will close at 9 p.m. today as voters in the Kingston Consolidated School District elect one new member to the Board of Education.

Polling places have been established at 12 sites in the school district. Persons not sure where they are required to vote should contact the school board offices at the Administration Center on Crown Street.

The three candidates running for election this year are Thomas Kearney of Sawkill, James Owens of Zena and Rev.

John Gilmore of Kingston. The winner will serve a five-year term on the Board of Education, replacing Arthur Withall, who declined to run for reelection.

The school board will meet in special session tonight to canvass the results of the election, which will be announced shortly after the polls close. There will be no business matters undertaken at tonight's special meeting.

The Board of Education will meet in regular session Wednesday night with a full complement of business and professional matters on the agenda. A preliminary report on the district's tentative 1973-74 budget is also expected. The school board normally meets on the first Thursday of every month; this month is an exception.

mon Council although little in the way of official action will take place on that particular piece of legislation.

"It will be referred to the Laws and Rules Committee for study," acting Alderman-at-Large Peter J. Mancuso told

The Freeman today. Mancuso is filling in for Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo who is filling in for Mayor Francis R. Koenig. The mayor is due back from his annual Florida vacation on Wednesday.

The aldermen will also receive a letter from one of their colleagues, Edmond J. Roux (R-9), seeking a transfer of $90,000 from the contingency fund for the maintenance of the west side of Delaware Avenue from Abruzzo Street to Murray Street. That too will be referred to committee.

The Traffic Committee will receive a petition from 10 persons living on Jansen Avenue asking that two-way traffic be allowed on the street for the entire year. The street is one-way during the winter months. The Kingston Urban Renewal Agency will ask the Council to set a public hearing date on a proposal from the Hadler Nursing Home of 208 Albany Avenue

Rondout Valley Candidate... 'Provide the Best Education'

STONE RIDGE — Mrs. Ann Coler of Stone Ridge, a candidate for reelection to the Board of Education of the Rondout Valley Central School District, said in a statement today that her goal is to "provide the best education we can afford for all children" in the school district, while assuring "that the taxpayers' monies are spent in a wise and legal manner."

Mrs. Coler said, "I have been a trustee of the Rondout Valley schools for the past three years. The word 'trustee' has a significant meaning to me; that at all times and in all situations my job is to represent you, the people. I am serving you because three years ago you saw fit to put your faith and trust in me. . . . I am extremely proud to be a part of Rondout. It is a very good school system, not without problems, but certainly looking ahead and hopefully providing some of the answers to the problems facing society at the present time."

Mrs. Coler continued, "I said three years ago that one of the reasons I wished to serve was to provide an atmosphere of understanding. I hope I have succeeded somewhat in accomplishing this goal. Our children are growing up in extremely difficult times. Many social changes are taking place and we must be willing to realize that children have rights also. "I am not suggesting that we should turn over our schools or management thereof to any particular group, but certainly be willing to listen to suggestions and ideas to cultivate a feeling of respect for all people."

Mrs. Coler concluded, "I would just like to add that I'm not a member of any political block; that I'm independent and represent the district and only the district and humbly ask for your support on Wednesday."

The elections will be held Wednesday. Eight candidates are competing for three vacancies on the school board.

Watergate Doubts in Middle America

POPPY DAYS IN E. US — Laura Marie Sleight, Town of Esopus Poppy Girl, pins a poppy on Norman C. Bohan, commander of Post 1298 American Legion, Esopus. CENTRALIA, Ill. (AP) — It's about 700 miles from Washington's Watergate to the Centralia Motel. Two different worlds. There are no headlines about the building on North Poplar Street—a long, brick structure that stands out among the wooden houses and shops of this prairie town. No one stops and points. Its intrigues are the memories of traveling salesmen and secret lovers.

This is middle America, and things go on as they have. But increasingly these days, the people of Centralia, so-called model members of the silent of the Democratic party's headquarters at the Watergate ofice-apartment complex into a campaign issue. The people of Centralia listened to questions about the morality of the administration, and their reaction seemed to be the popular one at the time: "It's something that everyone does."

On election day, they voted solidly for Richard M. Nixon. Today, Nixon does not appear to be in any great trouble with the voters of Centralia. But there is more questioning.

Ronald Totarsky, a 28-year-old duplicating-machine salesman discussed his feelings as he and his young son fished in a pond near their apartment. "I think the whole thing should have been opened up and exposed and forgotten," he said. "The whole basis of the Republican party is being undermined."

"I voted for Nixon myself. I personally feel that, since the election and since Nixon was voted in with such a landslide, Nixon got the idea that he could do whatever he damn well pleased." At the Pet Mart down the street, Mrs. Vernon Ellerbusch, 45, chatted about the case as she stocked shelves with chemicals solutions used in fish bowls. "As it goes the disclosures, I think this has been part of politics as long as there has been politics. The American people forget these kind of things," she said.

Strong Opposition to Viet Reentry

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — There is considerable opposition to further American involvement in Vietnam among some 18,000 voters across New York State, a public opinion poll conducted for the Gannett News Services shows.

Of those interviewed 61 per cent said there should be no more U.S. involvement if the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong were to break the cease-fire agreement and threaten to overrun South Vietnam.

Women showed a greater tendency than men against further entanglement, and the elderly were more frequently opposed than the younger voters.

Of the overall sample, five per cent said American combat troops should be sent to Vietnam under those conditions. Another 19 per cent of the cross-sample said they approved of sending arms and money to help South Vietnam, but just 15 per cent said they favored the resumption of American bombing of North Vietnam.

Conducted by Decision Research, Inc., of Wellesley, Mass., the questions went to voters in Westchester, Rockland and Monroe counties and Niagara Falls, and Utica between March 23 and April 2.

Sixty-seven per cent of the women interviewed said they were opposed to further involvement while fifty-seven per cent of the male cross section expressed opposition under the conditions.

Among voters 65 and older, 72 per cent expressed opposition to more U.S. commitment, compared with 62 per cent of those between 30 and 44 years of age and 58 per cent for those under 30. The political breakdown among the same against further U.S. entanglement was 66 per cent for the Democrats, 57 per cent for Republicans and 60 per cent for independents.

Top Levels of U.S. Government Paralyzed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Watergate scandal which the White House once dismissed as a "third rate burglary" has virtually paralyzed the top levels of the U.S. government.

As a result of the bungled bugging of the Democratic National Headquarters and the inept attempt to cover up the crime, the Defense Department is virtually leaderless, the FBI has a hastily recruited acting director, the Justice Department is reeling from a shakeup, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has no permanent head and the White House staff is reduced in key places.

President Nixon's hopes of turning his 49-state re-election sweep into a mandate for bold new programs has been set back and perhaps destroyed.

At second echelon posts throughout the government people are waiting for the next development. Many officials have conceded privately that they see no purpose in making a move when the man who ordered it may be the next to fall.

These are some of the consequences of the scandal:

Defense Department: Secretary Elliot Richardson was plucked from the Pentagon to become attorney general. Deputy Secretary William P. Clements, a 56-year-old former oil drilling company president from Dallas, becomes acting defense secretary. Clements joined the administration three months ago with no previous governmental experience.

FBI: L. Patrick Gray, who had headed the bureau since J. Edgar Hoover died last year and who was under severe criticism for his handling of the Watergate investigation, resigned. He was replaced as acting director by William P. Ruckelshaus who had to resign his post as head of the EPA to run the FBI. Ruckelshaus has said he is not a candidate for permanent director.

Justice Department: Richard son, an aristocratic Bostonian, who has become one of the most important of the inter-changeable parts in Nixon's Cabinet, was named attorney general succeeding the embattled

Richard G. Kleindienst, secretary of state. He was his tough enforcement of holding the job permanently.

Richardson, who served as Massachusetts attorney general, turned the loss of Ruckelshaus, whom up the environment. But he said he is concerned that high gear in its efforts to clean the EPA of shock of the last few days, is needed leadership just as it has alive and well."

He demanded that Democratic nominees Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois and Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama bare their own person finances, as Nixon did during his speech.

Monday, Nixon simply said, light to stay on the national both political parties had ticket, Nixon offered a chapter and-verse explanation of the specific facts at issue.

There was no new the presidency to retain the faith and trust of the public.

Twenty-one years ago, in his inquiry from defense lawyers, Ehrlichman he would not discuss any such appointment while he was sitting in incident.

He said, Ellsberg, out of court, ques-tioned the effect of the offer of such a post to the judge.

Defense lawyers, as the trial's links with the Watergate scandal increased, demanded a jury out of the room, in hearing into the connections.

They asked the judge to response to published reports of a "secret meeting" and an subpoena many of those men, including former Attorney Gen-eral John Mitchell, Ehrlichman doctor who psychoanalyzed and fellow ex-White-House aide Ellsberg.

As the young senator from California, Nixon offered his explanation of the trust fund and denied anything was wrong with how the money had been raised and spent.

This time, as President, he accepted the responsibility for the Watergate break-in at the Democratic Party national headquarters and the subsequent cover-up, although he emphasized that he hadn't believed any of his close aides were involved until March 21, more than nine months after the break-in. In the Checkers speech, Nixon sought to turn the attack onto the Democratic ticket which was opposing him

Watergate and 'Checkers Speech'... Many Contrasts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Though both dealt with charges of scandal, President Nixon's Watergate speech Monday night bore more contrasts than similarities to his famous "Checkers speech" of Sept. 23, 1952.

In the Checkers speech during his first national campaign for vice president, Nixon was called on to explain an $18,235 trust fund which constituents had set up to help pay his political expenses.

Now, nearly 21 years later, he again was on national television to discuss a campaign scandal in which his White House aides and campaign committee were deeply implicated.

Pentagon Papers Trial Tangled Up in Web

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Pentagon Papers trial, once expected to close this week, instead has become tangled up in the Watergate web.

U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne Monday ordered a "broad" probe into governmental investigations of Daniel Ellsberg, referring to such an investigation that had been conducted "directly out of the White House."

The judge has already ordered the Justice Department to tell him everything it knows or can possibly find out about a charge that two of the convicted Watergate conspirators burglarized the offices of Ellsberg's psychiatrist while they were White House staff members.

And the judge revealed in open court that he himself had met at the Western White House with President Nixon and aide John D. Ehrlichman—minute or less, we merely exchanged greetings."

Death Penalty at Issue

The recent action by the State of Connecticut in restoring the death penalty for certain acts of violence once again raises the question of whether capital punishment is a deterrent to crime.

Certainly the lawmakers in Connecticut believe it is. So does President Nixon who, despite a Supreme Court edict terming the punishment inhumane and therefore unconstitutional, wants the supreme penalty invoked for piracy, treason and war crimes.

This country is not alone in reviving the issue. The subject is under intensive discussion in Great Britain where the cry has been raised—"Bring back the rope."

Members of the House of Commons maintain there is no other deterrent. One revealing comment made by a Conservative Party member was the observation that convicted killers now serve an average of nine years in British jails.

And another member tied in the lack of capital punishment with the increased use of guns by criminals, reportedly up 160 per cent in the last five years. "Very few criminals carried guns when there was capital punishment," the lawmaker declared.

Legislation to control use of guns in the United States remains bitterly disputed. Congress simply has been unable to find gun legislation that both would stop killing and still satisfy sportsmen and other groups wishing to own firearms for protective purposes.

But with handguns as easily accessible as they are, shootings continue on the increase in this country.

Quinn Tamm, director of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, spoke recently in Washington and asserted that every two minutes an American citizen is killed or wounded. During one week in March 345 men, women and children were fatally shot, according to The Associated Press. Some were victims of armed robbers, some were policemen killed in the line of duty and some were shot during family quarrels.

And if these statistics aren't alarming enough, Mr. Tamm noted that since 1900, more than 800,000 Americans have been killed in this country by firearms, far more than have died at the hands of our enemies in all our wars.

Whether a return of capital punishment for heinous crimes would serve as a deterrent is not known. Neither is it known whether a ban on weapons, especially handguns, would reduce the number of killings.

We do know this, however. The present system isn't working very well. Alternatives must be considered.

Checkoff Fizzles

The tax check-off plan for financing presidential elections fell far short of expectations the first time around. Less than three in 100 taxpayers designated their desire that $1 of their Federal income tax be set aside for the use of the candidate of the party of their choice.

The Internal Revenue Service had been stepping up its campaign to get taxpayers to check off the very modest sum in their taxes for this purpose. Democrats have also tried to get the message over. Taxpayers did not respond.

The final figures are not yet available, but as of April 6 only 1,173,472 of the 45.3 million returns contained the checkoff authorizing form. More than $1,173,472 was thus designated. The precise amount will come later, when all the returns have been received and analyzed.

Nine Republican Senators have collaborated in introducing a bill to repeal the checkoff. Peter Domkinick, Colorado Republican, the chief sponsor, said the plan was adopted to "bail the Democratic Party out of problems going into the 1972 elections by transferring $9 million in debt to the American taxpayer."

However, this first test should not be regarded as wholly rejecting the idea. There was left over bitterness from the 1972 election that is not altogether worn off. Another year or two from now the taxpayers may feel a lot differently. Since the money cannot be spent until it is appropriated by Congress, another trial run or two with plenty of publicity may change things. Wider acceptance of the check-off would have advantages for both parties.

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Of the hundreds of thousands in unadvised cash stashed in GOP safes across the country, there are whispers some money wound up in a secret Swiss bank account. We have established that Alan MacQuoid, a minor Republican functionary in Los Angeles County, paid a mysterious call at the Swiss Credit Bank of Zurich on February 12. In two long distance interviews, he admitted visiting the Swiss bank but refused to discuss the details except to say his business with the bank was "strictly personal."

He told us he was close to President Nixon's personal lawyer, Herbert Kalmbach, who kept around $500,000 in Nixon campaign funds in a California bank account. At least some of this money, according to investigators, was used to pay for political spying and sabotage.

MacQuoid also acknowledged he had been in contact with other persons involved in the Watergate case but vigorously denied any involvement himself.

'No Comment'

We asked MacQuoid specifically whether he served as a conduit for money used in the Watergate escapade or other espionage activities. He paused about 10 seconds and answered "no comment." He told my associate Jack Cloherty, however, that he had not had any previous dealings with the Swiss Bank. Our sources say MacQuoid flew to Switzerland ostensibly on a ski trip. He left Los Angeles on Scandinavian Airlines charter flight C-1219 with a group called "The Far West Ski Association" on February 10. Two days later, he slipped into the Swiss Credit Bank. He returned to Los Angeles on flight C-1225 on February 25.

Through an attorney, Kalmbach denied knowing MacQuoid.

Sources close to the Watergate investigation, meanwhile, tell us at least $500,000 was spent in an attempt to hush up the scandal. Wiretapper James McCord alone deposited $60,000 in a Riggs National Bank account immediately after the Watergate trial. Investigators say he collected, all told, around $100,000.

Mrs. Liddy's Concern.

As early as August 7, Watergate ringleader G. Gordon Liddy's wife rented a safety deposit box at the Marine Midland Bank in Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

She also left a padlocked trunk in the bank's "silver storage room." Branch manager George Harnen told us Mrs. Liddy "expressed concern as to who would have access to the safe deposit box." She asked specifically whether "the authorities" could get into the box or trunk. The FBI, however, hasn't yet contacted the bank about the Liddy deposits, Harnen told us.

Our story has also been confirmed that Mrs. E. Howard Hunt, the late wife of the other Watergate ringleader, handed out cash to the burglary-bugging squad. She was killed in a Chicago airliner crash, with $10,000 in $100 bills in her purse. Hunt has told friends they intended to invest the money in a motel rather than keep it in a bank, where it could be easily traced.

Probably never in the history of American politics has so much loose cash been floating around.

WASHINGTON WHIRL

SKY POSTS: The White House has ordered three new Boeing 747s for the President to use as airborne command posts in case of war. The Air Force confirmed reports that hangars are now being planned at Andrews Air Force Base outside of Washington for the planes.

BANGLADESH'S BOOK-

KEEPING: The bedeviled bureaucrats of Bangladesh are so fouled up in paper work that more than $100 million in American aid has yet to be turned over to the ravaged impoverished land. The United States has given Bangladesh $40 million for tallow, cotton, pesticides, fertilizer and the like. This has been received and spent. Another $105 million is available to pay for schools, generators, coastal repairs and other construction. But under law, the United States cannot turn it over until Bangladesh vouchers for the spending. So far, this has proved too complicated for the new nation's harassed clerks.

EAGLE SCANDAL: Representative John Dingell, D-Mich., has written an infuriated letter to Interior Secretary Rogers Morton complaining that two accused killers of bald eagles are getting federal grazing privileges on public land. Dingell said the privileges have been accorded Dena Visintainer of Craig, Colo., and Herman Werner of Casper, Wyo., who "were named in the shotgun slayings of up to 635 bald and golden eagles." Dingell says he may hold public hearings if Morton can't explain satisfactorily how the eagle slayers got federal grazing permits.

GAUZZA'S TRAVELS: George Gauzza, an enterprising Interior Department official, has apparently been smitten with wanderlust. Last year, we caught Gauzza taking an "official" trip to Guam and Saipan. He was going to San Francisco anyway, it was explained, so he "decided that while on the coast, he might as well go on" to the Far East — a 6,194-mile afterthought.

This winter, Gauzza spent 10 days in Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands — on "official business," of course.

Another Tough Guy on the Block

On the Right

Neither Fool Nor Rogue

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

At Princeton University last week Professor Arthur Schlesinger Jr. pronounced on Nixon and Watergate before a large audience. It is this simple, he said. If Mr. Nixon knew ahead of time about Watergate, he is a rogue and (such was the lapidary insinuation) should be impeached. If he didn't know about Watergate he proves by the mismanagement of the White Household that he is a fool and (such, again, was the insinuation), he should be—got rid of.

The formula — not original by the way: it was used by Professor John Kenneth Galbraith last fall — reduces the complex situation to a dichotomy which one might expect to hear from a Rotarian fundamentalist, but which sounds strange coming from that breed of exquisite men who have spent their lives and developed their minds in Cambridge, Massachusetts the better to penetrate the higher distinctions.

On the assumption that we are driven to the second of Mr. Schlesinger's alternatives by the simple act of rejecting the first, then Mr. Nixon is a fool. But what does that make Mr. Schlesinger? Richard Nixon outwitted the Democratic Party first in 1968 and then in 1972, defeating the candidate of the Democratic Party whom Arthur Schlesinger went out of his way to anoint.

In mid-summer of 1972 Mr. Schlesinger was predicting that George McGovern would win the election by a landslide. How would it have sounded, to a college audience, if one had said about Arthur Schlesinger that inasmuch as he is a trained historian and political observer, he was either a rogue (for flaking for McGovern even though he knew McGovern was trailing and would be defeated), or a fool, for so misreading the evidence. Surely charity would require that one meditate on alternatives, the most obvious of these being that Arthur Schlesinger was misled by his enthusiasm and loyalty for McGovern and McGovernism, even as one supposes that Nixon was misled by his enthusiasm and loyalty for Nixonism and Nixonism.

It is strange how commonly it is assumed that the man at the top is familiar with the least particular of the operation he heads. As a lowly publisher, I receive mail accusing me of invidious delinquency because someone receives his copy of National Review one week late. To be sure, Watergate was never a matter quite so detached from the proper concerns of the President, inasmuch as from the beginning one thing about Watergate was clear, namely that the operation was intended to benefit the reelection efforts of Richard Nixon.

As such it caught the attention of Mr. Nixon who proceeded a) to order an investigation and b) to brush aside with entire confidence suggestions that his own aides and confidants were involved in any way — an altogether routine profession of faith in the men he had chosen to surround himself with.

It is extraordinary that — thus far — Mr. Nixon should be thought to have behaved all that unusually. President Harry Truman was forever professing his confidence in the probity of some of the scoundrels who surrounded him. It never occurred to President Eisenhower to doubt Sherman Adams, or to Lyndon Johnson to suspect Walter Jenkins. Literature is crowded with husbands who were the last to discover their wives' infidelity, with businessmen who were the last to discover the duplicities of their aides. King Lear was the last to discover the treachery of his own daughters, and Nicholas the Second the last man in Russia to discover that he had become unloved by his subjects.

No, it should be phrased otherwise. Loyalty and fidelity can lead to foolish acts. But loyalty and fidelity are not the mark of the fool. But a President ought to be qualifiedly loyal. Richard Nixon was not married to John Mitchell in the sense that John Mitchell is married to Martha Mitchell for better or for worse. Nixon's loyalty to Mitchell was always, and should always have been contingent upon a level of performance. Mitchell, after all, worked not only for Nixon but for the American people. Nixon works for the American people.

The best way to view it, pending clarifications for better or for worse, is that Nixon was lax in taking the proper initiatives. The proper initiative, in the Watergate case, would have been the appointment of an outside investigator. It might be added, in developing such a case against Nixon as can be developed in the light of what is now known, that he moved too slowly between March 20 and April 17. It was on March 20 that James McCord wrote the epochal letter to Judge Sirica advising him that there had been pressure on the Watergate defendants to keep quiet. It would have been reassuring for those who believe Mr. Nixon's moral reflexes have become flabby if he had moved the very next day to question the whitewash we are told was given to him by John Dean, his own investigator, the previous summer.

That, at the present, is the case against Nixon. The case marks him neither a rogue nor a fool, however foolish his reliance on individual aides turned out to be.

Poor Mr. Nixon suffers not only from the excessive desire of his friends to please, but from the ravenous appetite of his enemies to harm. This appetite Mr. Nixon has over the years fueled by that curdling sanctimony that is his trademark; and by that articulated impatience with the imperfect performance of others on which he built his early career. But both sides would recognize that the stakes have become altogether too high, and they should retreat, pari passu: the Nixon loyalists by admitting that he has been very foolish, the Nixon critics by admitting — that he has been very foolish.

The Last Put-On From Paris

By MARTIN F. NOLAN

WASHINGTON — According to the splashy advertising, "Last Tango in Paris" has opened in 12 European countries and has grossed $12 million. The movie has also attracted a horde of voyeurs, culture-seekers and assorted suckers stateside.

"It has become the largest grossing film in United Artists history," says the United Artists ad, and this is vaguely comforting, in an era of multinational corporations.

If you have the balance-of-payments problem in mind, the film's European success proves that American-packaged cinematic snake oil can be peddled to an entire Continent of rubes and hayseeds.

"Last Tango" was filmed in Paris and most of the dialogue is in bad French, but its motivating idea is as American as its financing. It is a put-on.

Poor Pauline Kael. The otherwise sensible film critic for The New Yorker was captivated by "Last Tango" last year and compared its showing to the first performance of Stravinsky's "Rites of Spring."

In the idiomatic phrase, she went ape. This reaction is entirely appropriate because the film is bestial.

It is an animal farm in metaphor, in mood and in the meaning it conveys on the state of the human condition. The central characters have no names for each other, which is just as well, since the audience would not find them worth remembering.

Engaging the sympathy of the audience seems to be at the bottom of "Last Tango" priorities. Any film character, whether Mickey Rooney as Andy Hardy or Dustin Hoffman as the antihero in "The Graduate," usually makes some effort to elicit audience support, or interest.

Marlon Brando spends so much time in this film existentially rejecting human warmth that the viewer is likely to be diverted by his acting. So, perhaps unconsciously — or perhaps as a put-on — the film becomes a Brando retrospective.

There is the gesture from "Streetcar Named Desire," the menacing look from "The Wild One," the grunts from "The Godfather," even the precise diction from Antony in "Julius Caesar."

Granted, Brando playing Brando is a more interesting pastiche than all those films in which Charlton Heston or Peter O'Toole plays Peter O'Toole. But is this what the "Last Tango in Paris" fuss is all about?

No, the fuss is supposed to be about sex. That's what is new and shocking in the movie. Certain scenes seem new and shocking, but that doesn't mean they are interesting or erotic.

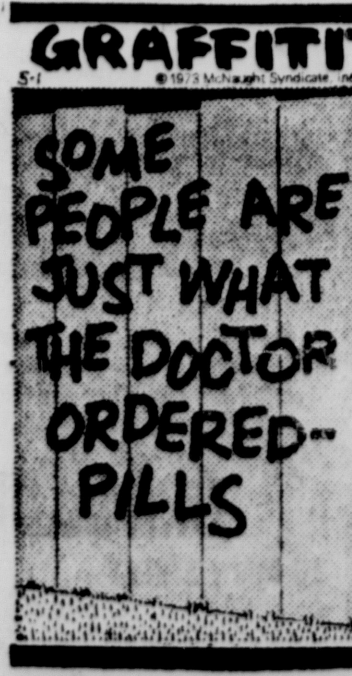

The United Artists ad says that the film "will play at the finest theatre in each city, considered by reason of its location, patronage and quality of presentation to be the most desirable showcase for film entertainment."

In Washington the favored showcase is the Avalon, in a residential area, where kids from the Lafayette Public School see "Willie Wonka and the Chocolate Factory" and such things on Saturday mornings.

The Avalon is across the street from the public library, within a block of three churches, and next to a toy store. Some parents think such films, if they are to be shown at all, belong downtown. Curious children could be damaged, they say.

But no. Kids are unlikely to be influenced by anything so dull. If that movie is banned, we'd have to X-rate the National Zoo, down the street. Those pandas are far sexier than anyone in "Last Tango in Paris."

AT THE MEETING — Among those attending the recent "Spring Clean-Up Day" session were (front, L-R), Bowman H. Owen, supervisor, Town of Hardenburgh; Legislator James J. Carroll (D-City) and Mrs. Shirley Kobran, chairman of the Environmental Task Force and the Ulster County Environmental Management and (rear, LR) Franklin Kelder, supervisor of the Town of Rochester and Hurley Supervisor George F. Schroeder.

Area Lawmen Attend Course On Extremism, Terrorism

BEAR MOUNTAIN — Officers and personnel from the Ulster County Sheriff's Department and the Kingston Police Department attended a special law enforcement conference on "Extremism and Terrorism" held recently at the Bear Mountain Inn.

The conference was sponsored by the FBI. John F. Malone, assistant director in charge of the New York FBI office, served as moderator.

Attending from the Ulster County Sheriff's Department were First Sgt. Donald Policastro and Deputies Art Nersesian, Barton Kniffin and Einor Knutsen. Attending from the Kingston Police Department were Police Chief Julius Glassman, Det. Lt. Charles McCullough, Det. Sgt. William Slover and Det. John Crespinio.

In an announcement concerning similar conferences being held in every section of the country during April and May, L. Patrick Gray, former acting director of FBI, said the purpose of the seminars is to afford local and state law enforcement authorities the opportunity to exchange information and views concerning a problem that has become "increasingly difficult and dangerous."

Gray noted that some 2,000 bombing incidents were reported last year, with 25 persons killed, 168 injured and estimates of property damage in the millions of dollars. "These alarming statistics, coupled with aircraft hijacking-extortionist activities, reflect the urgency of the program of meetings being planned by the FBI," said Gray.

"Terrorism, from whatever source or for whatever reason, is a pitiless and inhuman act," said Gray. "When terrorism succeeds, society loses more than lives or ransoms, it loses respect for itself and confidence in its law enforcement sentiments."

Similar FBI-sponsored conferences held a year ago highlighted the topic, "Attacks on Law Enforcement—Related Urban Crimes." In all, they were attended by more than 27,000 law enforcement officers representing some 7,000 agencies.

Workshops Set at New Paltz

NEW PALTZ — Four workshops will be featured on the second Regional Conference on the Native American at the State University College at New Paltz, May 4 and 5.

The conference director, Dr. Laurence M. Hauptman, announced today.

The workshops' topics, Dr. Hauptman said, will be "Federal and State Policy Toward Urban Native American: Where Is It?"; "Hollywood, the Media and Stereotypes"; "Educating and Miseducating"; and, at what is billed as a "student rap," "Militancy: The Road Ahead?"

Dr. Hauptman, who is assistant professor of history at the college, also announced details of a series of films that will be shown free for children during the conference. They will be shown continuously beginning at 10 a. m. Saturday, May 5, in Room 100 of the college's Lecture Center. Ten films, including "The Loon's Necklace" and "Indians of Early America," are on the program.

Well-informed speakers on different aspects of the conference topics, "The Urban Native American," will speak at the conference. Other features include a Native American dinner, resource persons to answer questions about Native American history, culture and problems, book and periodical displays and exhibits of arts and crafts.

The conference is open to everyone interested. Registration is $5 to people outside the college community except students, who will be admitted without charge whether they attend SUC New Paltz or not. The cost of an additional $5 for everyone but SUC New Paltz students, who will pay $2.

The conference is sponsored by the State University of New York, the regional Association of Native Americans and, at SUC New Paltz, the Faculty of Education, the Campus School, the departments of history and anthropology, the Student Government Lecture Committee and the History Club. The New York State Education Department and the State Museum are cooperating.

Further information can be obtained from Professors Hauptman, Kitzmann, or Miller at the college or from Ms. Fogden at the college's Campus School.

May 19 Will Kick Off County Spring Clean-Up

KINGSTON — May 19 marks "Spring Clean-Up Day" in Ulster County, as well as the start of a concerted campaign to bring under control the litterbug blight.

The campaign will be directed by the Conservation Committee of the Ulster County Legislature, and the newly-formed Environmental Management Council of Ulster County.

C. Freeman Lasher (R-Dist. 1), chairman of the Conservation Committee, recently convened a meeting of committee members, management council officials and town supervisors. Initially, the meeting was intended to map plans for a county-wide cleanup day; those attending ultimately agreed that preventative measures must also be taken.

It was decided, then, that May 19 should mark the start of a continuing effort to control litter. To that end, organizations in each township in Ulster County will be contacted for assistance and advice, and a series of local meetings with interested groups will be initiated in order to find the best ways of attaining, in Lasher's words, "a clean, litterless and beautiful Ulster County."

Among those attending the recent meeting were representatives from most towns in Ulster County (including supervisors and highway superintendents), representatives of the Environmental Task Force and individual conservation commissions, members of the Ulster County Legislature and sportsmen from Ulster County.

Why doesn't somebody tell me
these things?

The terrible-tempered Tweedledee (or is it Tweedledum?) is throwing a tantrum because he's just heard about Rondout's One-Check Payment Plan, and he wants to know why somebody hasn't told him about it. Well, we've tried to tell everybody!

Of course our One-Check Payment Plan appeals to him because he can make his mortgage payment and deposit money in his savings account with just one check. Thus saving time and money. As soon as Tweedle calms down a little we're going to tell him he can send us the check by mail ...and that we pay the postage. Saving more time and money. Wait till he hears that!

Upstaters Reject Pardons For Draft Dodgers

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Cent of the voting age public surveyed in seven upstate New York areas in a Gannett News Service poll published today.

Two Perjury Charges In Probe of Superfecta

NEW YORK (AP) — Two witnesses called by a special federal grand jury in Brooklyn investigating superfecta betting at Roosevelt Raceway were arrested Monday and charged with perjury, the FBI announced.

The arrested men, Albert William Lada, 26, of Brooklyn and Frederick Angelo Verlingo, 45, of Jersey City, N.J., could face fines of $10,000 and five years in prison each if convicted.

Details of the alleged perjury were not made known.

The federal investigation of superfecta betting is one of three launched after complaints of irregularities.

The superfecta was halted April 14 at Roosevelt Raceway, Monticello Raceway and the city's Off-Track Betting Corp. offices.

Also probing the superfecta are Harness Tracks Security, Inc., and Nassau County Dist. Atty. William Cahn.

People who oppose a general amnesty for young men who left the country or deserted to avoid war duty would rather see them put in the armed forces or public service than in jail, the poll showed.

But while the majority of those who oppose general amnesty wanted some kind of punishment, only 13 per cent favored prison terms. The largest number, 42 per cent, said they want draft dodgers and deserters put in such public service jobs as Volunteers In Service to America. Another 20 per cent said they should be required to serve time in the armed services.

But an equal 20 per cent said those who left the country to stay out of the war should never be allowed to return.

The poll of 1,800 voting age residents was conducted by Decision Research Corp. of Wellesley, Mass., between March 23 and April 2. The poll was taken in Westchester, Rockland and Monroe counties and Newburgh, Saratoga Springs, Niagara Falls and Utica.

Of those surveyed under 30 years of age, 44 per cent said they favored unconditional pardons, 53 per cent were opposed, one per cent supported amnesty for draft dodgers but not deserters and two per cent said they had no opinion.

In the 30-to-44 age group, 18 per cent favored unconditional pardons, 80 per cent were against them, one per cent backed pardons for draft dodgers but not deserters and one per cent was undecided. The response was nearly the same for those surveyed in the 45-to-64 and 65-and-over age groups.

Jewels Worth $500,000 Stolen At Kennedy

NEW YORK (AP) — Three gunmen held up employees at the Air India cargo terminal at Kennedy Airport Monday night and made off with shipments of diamonds, emeralds and other stones worth an estimated $500,000.

Police said two of the bandits forced the night supervisor to remove 31 tin boxes of jewels from a vault and loaded them into two cardboard cartons.

The third gunman stood guard outside and held up a truck driver who arrived during the robbery.

The estimated value of the jewels, shipped from India to dealers in the United States, was tentative because the bandits took shipping documents.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Marge Weber, who passed away one year ago May 1, 1972. Ever in our thoughts. Always in our hearts.

Daughter Kay Son-in-Law Harold Winters Grandchildren Tracy & Kerry

Memoriam

To our beautiful little angel in Heaven, Erin Lamoreaux, who will be two years old today. Our little love has gone away. And left our hearts in tears: How can we cope from day to day.

And all the empty years, God giveth and must take away. But what He took from me: Is too much for our hearts to bear.

A jewel we long to see. We miss you, MOMMY and DADDY

Memoriam

To our baby sister, Erin Lamoreaux, on her second birthday, May 1. God on His throne in heaven, Looked round at His flowers so fair. And then sought a blossom on earth.

To add to those He had there. To be part of such heavenly company. The bloom must be pure and sweet.

And the little bud that was chosen Was Erin, who played at our feet. We Love you, Robin, Kim, Susan & Lisa

Candles Can Snuff Out Lives

Candles have zoomed to a new level of popularity in recent years, and tragic fires caused by children playing with lighted candles are likewise more in evidence — not just at Christmas time, as was once the case, but all year round.

Here are some basic safety rules concerning candles, especially in households where there are small children:

1. If unlighted candles are used for decoration, don't keep matches or lighters nearby. There's no point in making it easy for little children to ignite the wick — or themselves.

2. Make sure candles are set firmly in sturdy holders which can't tip over.

3. Always keep lighted candles well away from curtains, bedding, upholstered furniture and clothing.

4. Don't let children — or anyone — carry a lighted candle around the house, or even move it once it's lighted. If necessary to put a candle in a different place, snuff it out first, then move and re-light it.

5. Keep candles away from decorations made of "plastic foam" — the lightweight molded polystyrene often used in table centerpieces. When this plastic material burns it gives off highly toxic fumes which can be fatal.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices were mixed today as investors waited to see how the market would react to President Nixon's speech Monday night on the Watergate affair. Advancing issues led declines 197 to 78.

The Big Board volume leader was General Cable unchanged at 11, followed by Uris Building Business Machines approved a five-for-four stock split Monday, but overwhelmingly voted down a church-led proposal asking the company to make a full disclosure of all its activities in South Africa.

Stock market prices closed slightly down Monday after recovering from sharp decreases earlier in the day. New lows for the year had been set on Friday in some market indicators. Thus although prices were only slightly down Monday, the session set even newer lows.

The recovery on Monday from the sharp drop, followed the announcement of the firing of one top administration official and the resignation of three others in connection with Watergate.

Funds for North Vietnam Excluded From Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon described the measure the House and Senate that heance for reconstruction and development in North Vietnam. Nixon said in a message to Congress which would increase current aid levels by $300 million as "the absolute minimum prudent investment" in rebuilding war-torn South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia, but needed for the free world's seeking no funds at all for development and prosperity.

IBM Shareholders Approve Stock Split

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — proposal took up about half the two-hour annual meeting. It was submitted by the executive board of the Episcopal Church, voting 8,496 shares, and supported by the "Church Project" on U.S. investments in South Africa—a coalition of several Protestant groups. They argued that multinational corporations investing in blacks and whites, and it would be unwise for business reasons for the company to disclose all details.

To Americans... the foundation of democracy.

To termites... just another meal.

Nearly 200 years ago our forefathers gathered here to sign the Declaration of Independence.

Recently, it was discovered a more insidious group had assembled. Termites. They were threatening to undermine the historic structure.

But no more. Today, the foundation of democracy still stands firm, protected by Terminex, the nationwide pest control experts.

Food, Rummage Sale

The Ladies Auxiliary of West Hurley Fire Department, Company No. 4, will sponsor a food and rummage sale Friday, May 11, at Glenford Firehouse from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The public is invited.

Family Planning

A new session in Family Planning, geared to the Rhythm Method, will take place Thursday, May 10, at Benedictine Hospital.

Details may be obtained by contacting Family Planning at Benedictine Hospital Monday through Friday 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Sale, Barbecue

Saturday, June 9, has been selected for the date of the annual rummage sale and chicken barbecue at Overlook United Methodist Church in Woodstock.

Mrs. Richard Drake, Mrs. Lee Oathout, Mrs. Arnold Reynolds and Mrs. Robert Breitenstein are in charge of arrangements.

Columbiettes

Ralph A. Suris, chief physical therapist at Benedictine Hospital, was guest speaker at the April meeting of Columbiettes of Kingston Council No. 275, Knights of Columbus.

According to Mr. Suris, large corporations have been finding it far more economical to place their top executives on a cardio-vascular program to avert heart attack than to replace them after a coronary emergency.

Obesity, hypertension, high cholesterol, triglycerides, smoking, stress and lack of physical activity, all contribute to heart disease. By controlling these risk factors, coronary thrombosis is averted.

Under a doctor's instructions, a therapeutic program such as those at Benedictine Hospital, can be a life-saving insurance against heart disease. Exercise, especially controlled and proper diet, are part of the program.

A question-answer session took place afterwards.

Arrangements of the speaker were made by Mrs. John F. Coffey, program chairman, through the Physical Therapy Department of Benedictine Hospital.

Elks Auxiliary

Ladies Elks Auxiliary No. 550 will meet Monday, May 7, at 8 p.m. in the Lodge Rooms, John Street, Kingston.

Psychologist or Psychiatrist?

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: A wife complained that her husband, a psychologist, was being intimate with some of his women patients. (He said it was "in the line of duty.") You told her that her husband needed to see a psychiatrist. Why didn't you recommend a psychologist? Some psychologists are as competent as psychiatrists to treat individuals with emotional problems.

WANTS TO KNOW: A psychiatrist is first a physician which qualifies him to rule out a physical problem that could be responsible for the emotional problem. Furthermore, only a physician is able to prescribe medication, should it be needed.

A psychologist who behaves in an unethical manner (and engaging in intimacies with patients is indeed unethical) should, in my opinion, see a psychiatrist. And I'd make the same recommendation for a lawyer, C.P.A., or any other professional person who gets carried away in the line of duty and appears hell-bent on destroying his family and live-hood. If the psychiatrist decides that only psychotherapy is indicated, a referral to a clinical psychologist could then be made.

DEAR ABBY: You advised someone to "go the 70x7 route," and no one in our office can figure out what you meant. Please clarify.

STUMPED AT KRUPP'S: DEAR STUMPED: I meant that however many times — 7, or 70x7 — someone trespasses against you, if he asks forgiveness, forgive him. (New Testament: Matthew, XVI-II, 21-22.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old boy with an unusual problem. For the last two years I have had a paper route and done odd jobs. I have saved $800 to do with what I please.

My sister lives in Belgium and has asked me to visit her during vacation time. She is 28 and teaches school there.

My mom said I may go, but my father hit the ceiling.

Mother-Daughter Banquet Planned

The annual Mother-Daughter Banquet sponsored by the Women's Guild for Christian Service of Hurley Reformed Church will be held Wednesday, May 9, at 6 p.m. in the church.

Mrs. Richard Ruth Jr., president of the Guild, invites all mothers and daughters of the Hurley Community to participate. Ticket prices are nominal as they cover expenses only.

Reservations are necessary and may be made with Mrs. James Woodard and Mrs. Kenneth Sandberg. Deadline is May 4 unless capacity is reached before then.

After the roast beef dinner, mother-daughter talent will be featured. A number of Hurley women and girls will participate in a varied program of entertainment.

Mrs. Ruth has announced the following banquet committees: decorations and program, Mrs. James Woodard, Mrs. Richard Ruth Jr., Mrs. Harold Schadeewald, Mrs. James Woodard and Mrs. George Yhlen; posters and publicity, Mrs. Ziad Ali and Mrs. Kenneth Sandberg; table favors, Mrs. Henry Ganss and Mrs. Joseph Kraniak; waiters, young men of the Sunday School and community, under the direction of Curt Voightlaender.

He said I was too young to learn anything, that it would be a waste of time and money for me to make that trip at age 14. Abby, I do well in school and I think I would learn a lot if I made this trip. I earned all the money myself and saved it, and I think I should be allowed to go. What do you think?

YOUNG READER:

YELM, WASH.

DEAR READER: From your letter I would say you are a responsible young man and would learn a great deal from the trip. Furthermore, a 14-year-old boy who can earn and save $800 should be permitted to spend it as he sees fit. I vote with Mom. (P.S. If you go, send me a postcard.)

CONFIDENTIAL TO JOHNNY: The best things in life are far from "free" — they oftentimes come with experience. And experience can be expensive.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

When children discover that a playmate wets his bed, the result can be merciless teasing and serious psychological problems.

The entire family can be affected. The cost and work of taking care of a bedwetting child can cause friction and irritability among parents.

It is quite possible that your child will EVENTUALLY out-grow bedwetting, but what happens until that time comes? Medical authorities have stated that a bedwetting child feels that he is a disgrace to his family. Statistics prove that a bedwetting child achieves below his real ability in school.

And the child is embarrassed and ashamed. But, now, bedwetting, when not caused by organic defect or disease, can be ended. Safely. Permanently. Our method is endorsed by many doctors. Read their statements in our 10 page brochure: "There is a Solution." Also read what other people say who have had the same problem. Send this coupon for your free copy. No cost or obligation.

$143.9 Thousand Pike Plan Bid

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

After two false starts, the Kingston Urban Agency finally seems to have the Pike plan for the renovation of the Uptown Business district on the road to completion.

Agency officials opened bids for Phase I of the plan—a 17-store section on the east side of Wall Street from John Street around the corner to Fair Street—and come out with an apparent low bid of $143,988 from Axel Johansen Const. Corp. of P.O. Box 476, Kingston. That bid is well within the agency's latest estimates for that part of the job. Work will begin in June.

Others submitting bids included Henry H. Swart and Son Inc. of 1 Stephan Street, Kingston, at $160,000 and Jennings Const. Co. Inc. of Woodstock at $258,599.

The agency originally opened bids on Phase I of the Pike Plan in July of last year, but there were no takers. The roles were reversed at an August, 1972 bid opening when the low bid came in at a decidedly high $351,971.

Agency architect Albert E. Milliken went back to the drawing board after that, deleted some public improvement work originally included in bid specifications — "we'll do that under a separate contract," Connors said today—and as a result bids came in under agency budgetary allowances. This contract will call for a "continuous canopy" reaching to the curb, along with necessary lighting.

The bid price will represent the agency's contribution to the project—along with an $18,000 fee for Milliken's services—with individual treatment of facades being paid for by respective owners.

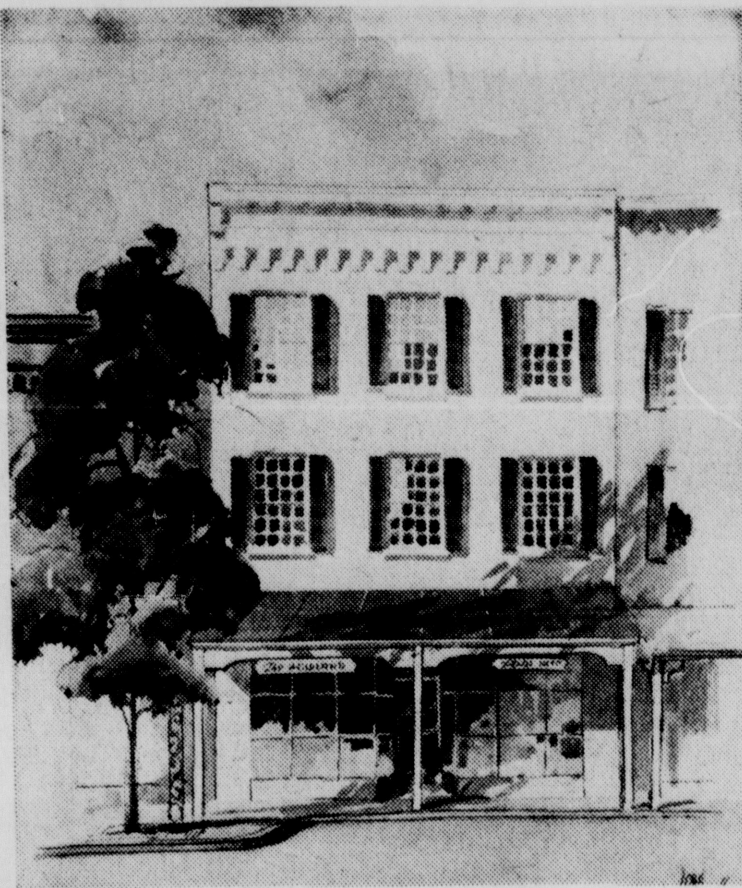

Milliken will make arrangements for those owners to meet with the contractor and discuss plans and costs for their stores under the Pike Plan. "We feel a cooperative effort (with the businessmen) is needed now that we have an apparent low bidder to do the work," Connors said. Once arrangements are worked out and commitments made, Connors said, work can begin on the Pike Plan, the renovation of the business district into a turn of the (19th) century motif.

Plans for work on Phase II — the other side of Wall Street from John Street to North Front Street—and the public improvements, will "begin right away," Connors said. The agency hopes to have Phase I and Phase II of the Pike Plan completed by the middle of this November.

Phase III, both sides of North Front Street from the Parking Garage and the corner of Wall Street down to Crown Street and Converse Street, will be carried out next year.

The Pike Plan was conceived by Woodstock artist John Pike and has been widely accepted by the Uptown Business community.

Opinions Differ Over RR Move

Byd TIM SCHUSTER

MILLERTON
Penn Central claims that decreased use of the Harlem Division Line necessitates abandoning 31.5 miles of track; several citizens' groups and the State Department of Transportation claim that poor management is part of the reason for lack of profits.

The showdown started Monday in Millerton.

An Interstate Commerce Commission hearing listened to Grant Seamon, assistant manager of transportation research for the railroad, and attorney Morton Schwartz outline the company's proposal to discontinue service from Millerton north to Chatham.

It is stated to be a matter of basic economics. "The line is in poor condition and continued use would require extensive restoration and renewal work. It is estimated that restoration would entail an initial expenditure of $409,500," to meet expected Federal Railroad Authority guidelines, to become effective in October.

On the other hand, the company expects it would receive a total net salvage value of $578,000 for property and equipment if it were abandoned.

Freight service is provided "as needed" north of Millerton, and operates six days a week from Millerton south to Putnam. Passenger service was discontinued in March, 1972.

Penn Central claims to have lost $63,000 in 1970; $69,000 in 1971; and $35,000 in 1972 in operating the section proposed. There is simply not enough demand in this rural predominantly agricultural area, say spokesmen.

Included among protestants to Penn Central's proposal are the Harlem Valley Transportation Association; State DOT; United Transportation Workers; Con Edison; and the Berkshire-Litchfield Environmental Council from Massachusetts.

A motion to adjourn the hearing on the grounds that the Environmental Protection Agency law had not been lived up to was denied by Administrative Judge Bernard Feuer. Protestants claimed that the EPA requires the ICC to submit an environmental impact study, which it has not done.

Judge Feuer did, however, ask that Penn Central come up with a copy of the lease between it and the Harlem Valley Railroad, the actual owners of the line who have leased it to Penn Central. The board of directors of Harlem Valley Railroad have not yet approved abandonment of the section of line.

Mrs. Gerald Carson, president of the HVTA, noted that an earlier attempt by the railroad to abandon this section was not granted in 1963 by the ICC as the examiner reported that "public interest and convenience did not permit the abandonment and the applicant had made no effort to investigate the traffic potential."

She added that the Harlem Line was, prior to the discontinuation of the interchange at Chatham, an "integral part of a continuous railroad system with connections north, east, west, and south," and she claimed that this arbitrary change in routing imposed in 1961 was an attempt by management to make operation impractical.

The line still connects with Chatham, but freight coming from Selkirk must go to New York City and then north to Millerton, rather than coming directly across the Hudson River and down the Harlem Valley.

Increased necessary truck traffic was also scored, with Mrs. Carson pointing to Agway's new operation south of Millerton, started last December, which expects to be bringing in 500 to 600 hundred-ton hoppers annually when in full operation. This would all have to be transported by truck, as well as other area freight.

An investigation of a Penn Central environmental impact study was expected during the course of the hearing.

High wire artist demonstrates Torino's incredibly smooth ride.

Just released: Gran Torino 2-Door Hardtop with new Luxury Decor Package and VSW tires.

It took a lot more than a smooth ride to make Ford Torino the best selling car in the mid-size field.

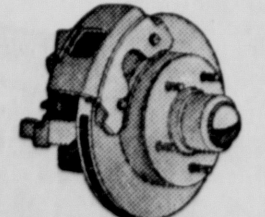

The closer you look, the better we look.

Optional AM/FM stereo radio with front and rear dual speakers.

Front disc brakes are standard on Torino. Power front disc brakes optional.

Torino's instrument panel. All gauges are easy to read, controls within easy reach of driver.

Behind Torino's smooth ride are better ideas in engineering. Like angle mounted shock absorbers for increased directional stability. Rubber body/frame mounts that help isolate the passenger compartment from road shocks. And a coil spring rubber-insulated front suspension that helps minimize noise and road vibration.

Inside you'll find expansive room up front. Plus the kind of luxury you'd expect from high priced automobiles.

So take a good, close look at Ford Torino for '73. Discover why it's become the best selling car in the mid-size field.

The Harlem Globetrotters if he didn't like the next contract the Lakers offer him.

Oh sure!

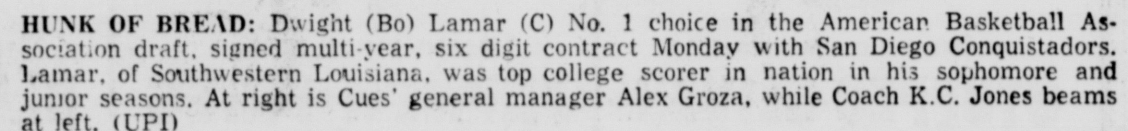

Now you see why the Knicks could be in trouble?

Eddie Gottlieb, who signed Chamberlain to his first contract with Philadelphia and now is chairman of the NBA Rules Committee, says he has always found the Lakers' big center friendly, congenial and the kind individual likely to do what he says he will. On a basketball floor anyway.

"I've only seen him flustered there once," says Gottlieb. "It was in Europe someplace. The other team sent out a midget to jump against him. This guy couldn't have been more than four feet six inches tall. Chamberlain took one look at him and said 'what is this, a joke? Where in hell did you come from?' It was the only time I ever saw him not know what to do on a basketball floor.

"He wasn't himself out there," Indiana Coach Bob Leonard said of his 6-9 center.

USSR Cagers Even The Series . . . But . . .

It's the Same, Old Russian Hysterics

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — After a wild ending resembling last summer's fiasco in the Munich Olympics Monday night, representatives of the United States and Russian basketball teams unleashed a barrage of charges which also recalled last summer's hysterics.

The visiting Russian team, composed of nearly the same squad that won that controversial Olympic final 51-50 for the gold medal, continued their bruising brand of basketball and edged the U.S. All-Stars 78-76 to even the series at one game apiece.

"Sven Nater is a dirty player, a very dirty player," Russian Coach Vladimir Kandrashin said of the Americans' substitute for ailing center Bill Walton, who sat out the contest with a knee injury. "Nater goes out with his elbows and he is not a sportsman."

"I disagree," responded U.S. Coach Bob Cousy. "Sven is not a dirty player."

"I have instructed my players to be as physical as they can be," Cousy said, "but we do not know how to be as physical as international rules will allow."

Tom Henderson of Hawaii, who played on the U.S. Olympic team, said, "They are very physical under the boards. I consider them a dirty basketball team but that's their style of play."

Jim Oxley, a former West Pointer, had a chance to tie the game at the buzzer but his 20-footer rolled off the rim.

"Jim really played an exceptional game," said Cousy. "He sparked us when we needed it and we went to him for the last shot so it's obvious what we thought of his abilities."

The United States took a slim 41-40 lead into the locker room after a bruising first half in which Cousy received a technical foul for protesting a call. Ron Behagen of Minnesota was ejected from the game in the second half for unsportsmanlike conduct.

Ernie DiGregorio of Providence got the U.S. team off to good start by firing in the first five points in the game before Russia fought back to take a 16-9 lead. The score was tied 10 times in the contest.

Ivan Dvornik paced the Soviets with 16 points before he fouled out with only 43 seconds gone in the second half. Aleksander Salnikov, a 6-6 forward, then got hot and tossed in 14 points in the next 13 minutes to give the Russians a 68-61 lead with 7:30 to play.

Oxley scored two quick layups to help bring the Americans back to a 70-70 tie with 5:58 remaining. The lead changed hands until Russia went on top for good at 78:76 with less than a minute to play.

DiGregorio, who ended with 15 points, came down and missed a 25-footer with 30 seconds left and then threw a pass out of bounds after the U.S. had recovered possession. The Soviets lost the ball again with one second remaining, setting up Oxley's final shot.

"On offense we were building our game around Bill Walton," said Cousy, "and Sunday it worked." Walton reinjured his tender knee in Sunday's 83-65 U.S. win in Los Angeles.

"We were disappointed in playing so poorly in one of America's big cities," said Kandrashin of Sunday's loss, "but we normally like to arrive earlier for a particular game to get acclimated to our surroundings."

The series picks up in Albuquerque, N.M. on Wednesday night and moves to Indianapolis on Saturday, New York on May 7 and Baltimore on May 8.

"If we lose the next four games," lamented Cousy, "they can second guess me like they did U.S. Olympic Coach Hank Iba.

For Henderson, the coming games are an opportunity to prove a point.

"I'm out there for my peace of mind," he said. "I hope to prove we're better than they are."

Orange and Ulster Split; Trippodo Hurls 2-Hitter

MIDDLETOWN

Ulster County Community College received 18 innings of superior pitching here Monday, but two disputed rulings by the umpires forced the Senators to settle for a split of their Mid-Hudson Conference doubleheader with Orange CC.

Orange won the opener, 2-1, in 11 innings, and Ulster took the nitecap, 3-0.

Vin Mannese, the former Marlboro High School ace, went all 11 frames of that first game. He didn't walk a man; he gave up only five hits, and he struck out eight Colts. But he got a premonition of what was to come when Orange took a 1-0 lead in the third.

Two errors and a stolen base put Orange's Jerry Coakly on third with only one out, the next Colt lofted a fly to Ron Trippodo in left who returned it to the infield where the Senators protested Coakly left the bag too soon. The appeal was denied, however, and Ulster was down.

A walk, a stolen base and two errors scored Garry Schmeltz in the top of the fourth to tie the game, and it stayed that way until the 11th with Thane Kelly blanking the Senators.

Mark Kabinoff then tripled off

Mannese in the final inning, and the next man, Sam Quimby, rapped a grounder to Pete Kohlasch at short. Kohlasch checked the runner then fired to first, but his peg pulled George Geanuleas off the bag.

Coach George Vizvary described what happened: "The throw pulled Geanuleas about four feet toward home, and as he caught it he turned and tagged Quimby clearly on the back. The umpire, however, called him safe. We protested again, and when we offered him a life subscription to Sterling Optical, he threw my assistant, Gene Carpenter, out of the game."

Mannese tried to pick Quimby off the bag, but his throw went wild, and Kabinoff walked home with the winning run.

Kelly, who also pitched strongly for Orange, got the win with eight strikeouts and four walks.

Trippodo blanked the Colts on two hits, and Harold Johnston smashed a three-run homer in the second inning as Ulster took the second game. Johnston's blast came after Kohlasch was hit by a pitch and Trippodo walked.

Trippodo got good defensive support and was never in serious trouble. He beat a good effort by Orange's Steve Maziegea who only gave up five hits.

Ulster is now 5-7 on the season and takes on Dutchess CC in a twilight doubleheader tonight at Riverview Field in Poughkeepsie.

Monticello Hikes Purses on May 5

MONTICELLO miles tend to increase fan participation and thus the pari-mutuel handle.

Monticello Raceway president Leon Greenberg announced Monday that purses at the Sullivan County Oval would be raised effective May 5. Greenberg said the move was made in recognition of the tremendous efforts and contributions made by the horsemen during the first two weeks of the summer meeting.

"I think it's quite obvious that this is the finest class of horses we have had in our 16 years of operation," commented Greenberg. "The racing has been both exciting and rewarding since the beginning of the meeting. Better class pacers and trotters and faster

Fergosi Double Tiggers Mets' Win Over Army

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI)—Jim Fergosi drove in the tying and go-ahead runs with a second inning double and Wayne Garrett slammed a homer Monday as the New York Mets beat Army 7-1 in a seven-inning exhibition game.

Army was held to only two hits, including a first inning homer by Joe Clark, by three Met pitchers. The run was the first scored by Army in five exhibition games against the Mets.

Hank Webb, recently brought up from Tidewater of the International League, went the first three innings for the Mets to gain the victory. He was relieved by Harry Parker in the fourth and Jim McAndrew pitched the final inning for New York.

Plynn Andrew hurled the first three innings for Army and took the loss.

Dulin's 40 Paces Coleman Victory Over Ellenville

ELLENVILLE behind with 41. A. J. Maneen and Steve Dulin carded 43s to round out the Coleman total.

Nat Friedman, playing opposite Dulin, gave the Coleman Coleman High's powerful golf leader a good battle, before yielding 40-41. Ken Murray posted 42 in the No. 2 singles, with Mike Hayden posting 45.

Tony Maneen was a stroke and Glenn Karow 46.

Nikki Desy: UCCC First

STONE RIDGE Prendergast, couldn't win a game against Bob Lake in the College lost another tennis match Monday, which isn't earth shaking news. But the Senator netmen did achieve an all-time first in UCCC sports. They welcomed a member of the weaker sex to varsity tennis for the first time in the history of the college.

Miss Nikki Desy, a former Ontario High ace, was the trailblazer. That she lost was inconsequential. She will always be remembered as the first.

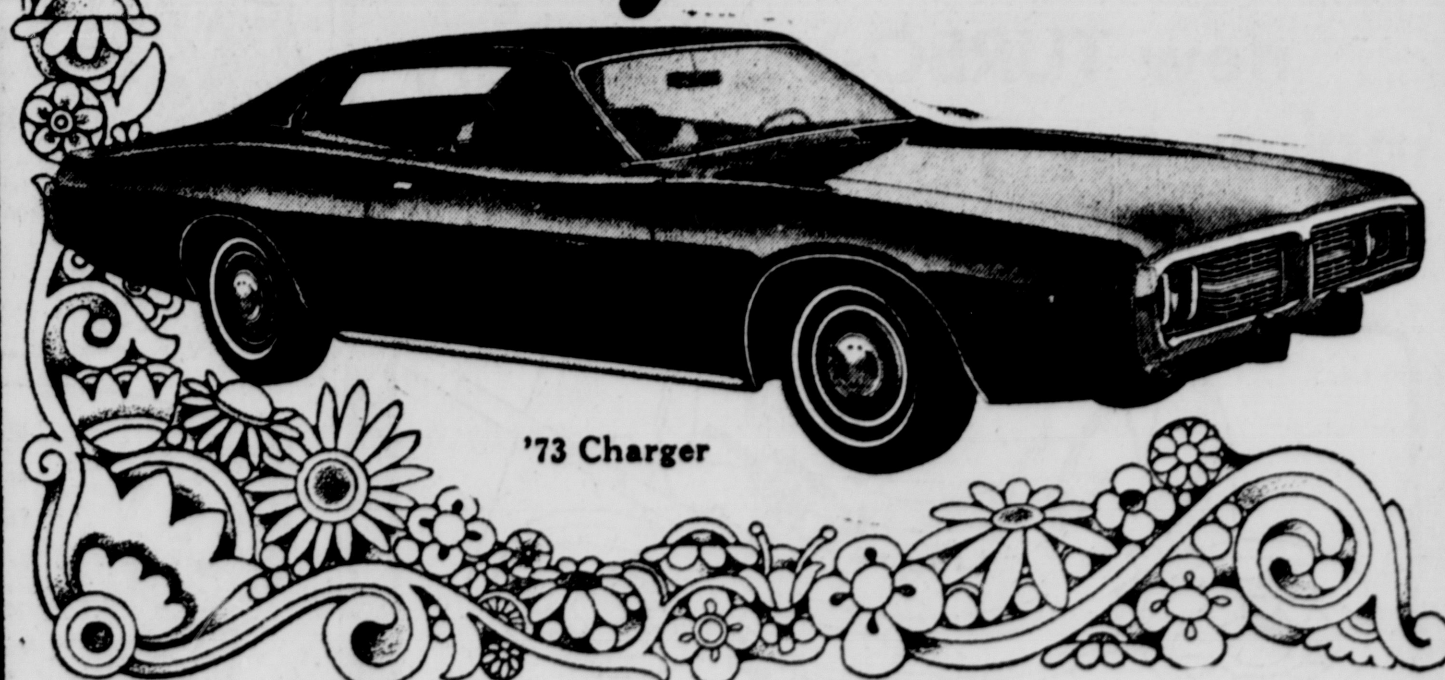

Orange County Community Temple and Willacy, 6-4, 6-4, defeated Coach Pete Zeeh's Buchsman and Tornberg won 6-1, 6-3 over Gary Nekson and Ray Harris.

Tom Krom, the No. 2 singles player, scored the only UCCC win, turning back Tim Young, 6-4, 6-3. No. 1 man, Jerry Community,

REMINISCING: Exercise rider George Davis, who worked 1972 Kentucky Derby winner Riva Ridge, reminisces as he looks towards the empty grandstands at famed Churchill Downs while atop Secretariat—a Lucien Laurin-trained chestnut colt favored to win the 99th running of the Derby on Saturday. (UPI)

It's Vendetta Time At Derby Downs

LOUISVILLE, Ky., (UPI) — A one-sided vendetta surfaced at Churchill Downs Monday with trainer Frank "Pancho" Martin vehemently charging he had been slandered by Lucien Laurin and Laurin protesting his innocence.

Laurin, who won the Kentucky Derby a year ago with Riva Ridge, currently is getting favored Secretariat ready for Saturday's 99th running of the turf classic while Martin handles Sham, second choice in the 1-14 mile race.

"We have been friends for 18 years but I haven't talked to him since the Wood Memorial. He called me a thief. I didn't call him a thief. What is there to talk about?" declared Martin who so interpreted a statement attributed to Laurin in a racing paper.

The statement appeared on the day of the Wood Memorial at Aqueduct. In the race Sham finished second with Secretariat third. Angle Light, also trained by Laurin, won by a head.

"It said, quoting Laurin, 'The only way they can beat him (Secretariat) is to steal it.'"

"That means Sham can't beat Secretariat unless I do some-"

Koosman Is Top Player of Week

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The New York Mets' Jerry Koosman, who appears to have regained his old pitching form, was named National League Player of the Week today.

The left hander made his season record 4-0 and his earned run average 1.06 in two complete game victories. In a shut-out over Atlanta Sunday, he allowed no runner to advance beyond first base.

Koosman, 30, had an 11-12 record last year. In his first two full seasons with the Mets, 1968 and 1969, he had records of 19-12 and 17-9.

thing bad. Let me tell you, my reputation on the race track is a million per cent honest. It was very cheap to say that about me. All Laurin does is make excuses, excuses, excuses. It's funny, the only day Secretariat didn't want to run was the day he met Sham," Martin said.

"I am sorry if he feels that way because I certainly didn't mean to say anything against him," Laurin said. "I just didn't want some horse to get to the front unchallenged and sneak home before the others had a chance. I warned Ronnie (Jockey Ron Turcotte) about it. I started two horses and told both jockeys they were on their own. I feel bad about this, indeed I do. I think Martin is a damn good horseman, one of the best. And he has proved it," Laurin said.

"But my job is to get Secretariat ready for Saturday. As for excuses, the slow pace in the Wood Memorial didn't help Secretariat at all. And that is the truth. I want him to win this time, if he can, and I hope he can," Laurin added.

Martin also resents implications that Secretariat is considered the best prospect to win the Triple Crown since Citation swept the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and the Belmont Stakes in 1948.

"Sham has as good a shot as Secretariat to win the Triple Crown. I think I have the best horse in the country. Maybe

Milner on Disabled List

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Astros in Houston April 24 and New York Mets placed injured Dr. Peter Lamotte, the Mets' first baseman John Milner on the 15-day disabled list Monday and said General Manager Bob Scheffing may name a replacement Tuesday.

Milner suffered a pulled hamstring muscle in his right leg while playing against the one way to find out, out there," Martin said, pointing to the race track. "And out there is where I want to find out. I've got a good horse, a good rider. The horse is in top condition and I will have no excuses. I am going to beat him," Martin said.

"One race doesn't prove anything. We meet four times in the classics—the Wood Memorial which I won, the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and the Belmont Stakes.

"Let's see who can win the most races. If Secretariat can win most of them I'll give him credit. I'll take off my hat and congratulate him. But he'll have to do it first," Martin said.

Sham worked six furlongs in 1:11 1/5 Monday. Martin said he didn't want the colt to all on his own (without urging). Secretariat and running mate Angle Light were on the tracks for gallops.

Pvt. Smiles and Vodika were withdrawn from the Derby Monday, leaving 16 probable starters.

They were Secretariat and Angle Light, Sham and stablemate Knightly Dawn. Twice a Prince who picked up Angel Santiago as his rider, Gold Bag, Restless Jet, Impetuous, Warbucks, My Gallant, Our Native, Navajo, Starkers, Forego, Settecento and Royal and Regal.

Not A Shutout in Sight

New Paltz, OCS, Highland Win

KINGSTON There wasn't a shutout in sight Monday as the Ulster County Athletic League opened its regular schedule. Charlie Jones of Marlboro and George Drobot of Walkkill each hit grand slams to lead their teams to victories, highlighting the beginning of the UCL's new abbreviated pennant races.

Marlboro outslugged Red Hook, 8-5, and Walkkill bombed Pine Bush, 14-6, and in other games, New Paltz edged Onteora, 4-2. Liberty stopped Rondout, 9-1, and Highland defeated Coleman, 5-2.

Jones locked up with Red Hook's Randy Fister in a pitching duel, and after five innings he was losing it. Terry Thayer broke open a tie game with a bases-loaded triple in the fifth frame that gave the Raiders a 5-2 lead.

Fister, however, began to tire in the sixth, and after Anthony Porpiglia tagged him for a leadoff double, the Red Hook fireballer raved up consecutive walks to Mike Sciana and Brian Benben.

Ron Camisasca came on to put out the fire, but the best he could start with was a potential sacrifice fly by John Bunt that the Raider left fielder dropped. That scored one run and left the bases full for Jones. Jones knocked Camisasca's next pitch out of sight for a lead he never relinquished.

Jones went the whole route, collecting four strikeouts while issuing three walks. Fister fanned 10 and walked five during his stint, and Camisasca, who took the defeat, recorded one strikeout.

Pine Bush coach Marsh Canosa may never make another pitching change again. After his third baseman Barry Alexander had drilled a three-run homer in the first to power the Bushmen to a 5-3 lead after four innings, Canosa tried to protect it by moving Alexander to the mound in the fifth.

Mike Della Pia had started Alexander's day when he put in the sixth to defeat the Indians and Bruce Hurley. He brought Della Pia back, but his first pitch Mark Walther drilled deep to the outfield. That would have been another homer, but Walther missed tagging second base and he had to go back and settle for a two-run double.

Canosa decided it just wasn't

Ralph Calderone, who scattered five hits, picked up the win, while Alexander was charged with the loss.

Ed Siani tripled in a run for New Paltz in the fourth inning and came home on an error moments later to stake Roger Plantier to a 3-0 lead over OCS.

That was enough for the Huguenot hurler as he survived Jim Steenburg's two-run single in the sixth to defeat the Indians and Bruce Hurley. Liberty's Steve Foster was a one-man gang at Stone Ridge. The righthander fired a three-hitter at Rondout, fanning 13 Ganders, and at the plate he doubled his first three times up, scored twice and drove in three runs. Bob Cooke lasted five innings and took the defeat.

Highland scored twice in the first inning and remained in command all the way behind a four-hitter by Jeff Elting. Ken Colabella and Hobie Simpson slugged two hits each for the Big Blue.

Kevin Coughlin struck out 11 batters, but he gave up eight walks and was the loser for the Statesmen.

JACOBSEN's revolutionary new TURBO-VENT rotary makes every other mower on the market obsolete!

biggest improvement in mowers in 30 years and only JACOBSEN has it!

How Does Turbo-Vent Work?

Ordinary mowers draw air from the bottom only. Jacobsen's new top venting system creates greater air flow under the deck and thus more agitation of the grass. This automatically means better cutting! Add Jacobsen's new high velocity gullwing cutting blade and you really see a difference!

You will get a finer cut on a beautiful lawn and a better cut on a rough lawn. Turbo-Vent cuts long grass, even wet grass and practically eliminates matting. And the finer clippings mean better bagging, less frequent emptying.

Choice of nine push or power propelled models with fold-down handles, finger-tip height adjustments and other convenience features. See Jacobsen's TURBO-VENT, the revolutionary rotary at your dealer today!

Yemen, Airliner Crashes, 25 Officers Are Killed

BEIRUT (UPI) — A Yemeni government officials, Beirut said today.
The radio said Foreign Minister Mohammed Saleh Al-Awlaki died in the crash.
The other officials included South Yemen's ambassadors to the Soviet Union, Britain, Iraq, Lebanon and Somalia and the South Yemeni representative at the Arab League, the broadcast said.

Set Junk Car Program in Paltz

NEW PALTZ — Residents of the Town of New Paltz may get rid of junk cars on their property by calling the New Paltz Town Police, according to New Paltz Town Police Director John F. Taylor and Building Inspector Arthur Pritchett.

The cars do not need to be operative, they say, but must be entire cars. This type of car will be removed without cost. Stripped cars will entail a small charge for removal.
New Paltz zoning ordinances allow only one unlicensed vehicle per premises.
The program is being made possible by Tantiello's Service Station, South Ohioville Road, New Paltz.

More Talks at Wounded Knee

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. over disarmament of the village and the pact was never implemented.

Preparations also were being made for the burial of two AIM members slain in gun battles with federal officers during the siege.

The body of Frank Clearwater, brought to Fools Crow's home on the Pine Ridge Reservation Monday by caravan from Rapid City, was to be off the reservation by mid-day today.

The tribe permitted Clearwater's body to be taken to Fools Crow's home for a one-day wake, but stipulated that the body be buried off the reservation because he is not an Oglala Sioux.

Crow Dog has agreed to allow Clearwater's body to be buried in a family plot on the Rosebud Reservation, east of Pine Ridge, but there has been no word on whether Rosebud tribal authorities have approved the arrangement.

Although funeral arrangements haven't been completed, Frizzell said the tribal government has agreed to allow the burial in Wounded Knee of Lawrence LaMont, the other slain member of the occupation force. LaMont is a Pine Ridge resident and an Oglala.

"A limited number of the immediate family, not to exceed eight to 10 people, will be allowed to accompany the body into Wounded Knee," Frizzell said. "They are to leave the village once the burial is completed."

Woodstock Man Guilty Of Drug Possession

KINGSTON — Defense counsel Robert Ricken, in summation, accused Melbert of trying to create a secondary issue.

Melbert pointed out that Humble looks considerably different today than he did last July and that the prosecution's witnesses had to be able to identify the defendant.

Ricken also contended the prosecution failed to prove that Humble "knowingly and unlawfully possessed marijuana."

Melbert, referring to the 100 pounds of "vegetable matter" found under a bed in the house in which Humble resided asked, "Is it unreasonable to assume this much marijuana was stored in the cabin and the people living there didn't know?"

Previously, testimony revealed that firemen found the vegetable matter on the entire area under the bed up to six to 10 inches deep.

Commenting on the case, District Attorney Francis J. Vogt said today that Humble was originally charged with possession 900 pounds of marijuana, 800 of which was discovered in a camper truck outside the house.

This particular marijuana could not be used as evidence, Vogt said, because of the manner in which it was secured by police officers which violated the defendant's rights under the search and seizure law.

Liberal Party Names Cannon To Key Post

Francis M. Cannon has been named chairman of the Poughkeepsie division of the Dutchess Liberal Party, according to an announcement from Jay Kosseff, county chairman.

The appointment by Kosseff, a Rhinebeck resident, will be subject to approval by the Poughkeepsie Liberal Party, due to hold its organization meeting soon after Primary Day.

Cannon has been active in Liberal Party affairs for more than six years and has been candidate for Assembly twice and Senate once. He sees as his major assignments building an active Liberal Party in Poughkeepsie and assisting in the campaign of William Ring, the party's candidate for mayor of that city.

Receiving the designation of first vice-chairman was Clair Larabee. She is expected to assist Cannon in his efforts and will also be subject to approval by the city committee.

NOTICE OF SALE

Index No. 71-1691

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale entered in the above entitled action and bearing date of the 13th day of March, 1973, I, the undersigned, the referee in said judgment, will sell at public auction at the front door of the County Court House in the City of Kingston, New York, on the 11th day of May, 1973, at 1 o'clock in the forenoon of that day the premises directed by said judgment to be sold and therein described as follows:

ALL THAT TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND, situated in the Town of Esopus, County of Ulster and State of New York, which in a deed thereof to John S. Bruen from the said John S. Bruen dated June 28th, 1854 and is described as follows:

BEGINNING at a stone on the west side of the public road leading from Kingston to Newburgh on the north side of a small run of water and runs thence along the division line of lands formerly owned by James T. Elmore, deceased, south eighty-two degrees west five chains to a stone then north eighty-three degrees west seven chains and eighty links to a stone on the east side of the farm thence along that line and the line of C. West south four and a half degrees east twenty-two chains and eighty links to a heap of stones in the northwest corner of a lot of land formerly owned by William DeGraff thence due east eleven chains twenty-five links to the public road and thence thence along the same about twenty-five chains and ten links to the place of beginning, containing thirty acres and five rods more or less. Including a strip of land lying between the premises above described and the lands of John M. Gregory, colored, the southerly bounds of the above described premises.

Excepting, reserving out of the same about half an acre as enclosed as a school and school yard, and a parcel 60 feet by 100 feet immediately adjoining the same to the north as conveyed to William Schatzel and wife.

Excepting any portion not in the above described premises which may have been conveyed to the County of Ulster or the State of New York for highway purposes and are presently of record.

Said premises will be sold subject to the lien of the mortgage held by Kingston Trust Company originally in the amount of $15,000.00 and $1,000.00 GOLD.

Your Horoscope

Wednesday, May 2

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is no day to take any chances especially where money, property and possessions are concerned. Double-check on whatever arises to avoid making mistakes. The evening is fine for romantic interests that can bring happiness.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Avoid extravagances and unwise investments today and think more on the emotional side of life. Postpone making big decisions until you are more sure of the future. Be alert.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Do those things that make you more charming in the morning. Later finish those uncompleted tasks that have accumulated. Not a good day to reach a decision on a personal matter.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You feel limited but this can be overcome by engaging in your favorite pastime. Lend a helping hand to another in need and make your own burdens lighter. Think and act constructively.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make sure you don't hurt the feelings of a friend who is upset or there could be an unwanted severance of connections. Conditions are right to attend the social tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Use tact in the handling of a career problem today and become more secure in your line of endeavor. Don't force your ideas on others in the morning. Spend evening quietly at home with kin.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Make sure you complete what you have started during the morning. In the afternoon go out and make new friends. Avoid one who has a chip on the shoulder. The evening then turns to joy.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Attend to those duties ahead of you and keep promises made to others. Persevere and you can accomplish a great deal. Avoid a tendency to go off on a tangent. Do something you really like.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Show how much you appreciate associates and allies who have been loyal to you. Any changes in agreements should be made in the afternoon. More cooperation with mate is necessary.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Cooperate more with fellow workers and improve your surroundings. Do your work efficiently and derive more benefits. Evening is fine for the social side of life.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you perfect your hobbies, you find they can delight you a great deal. Do your work properly during the day. The one you love can be in a cooperative mood tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Use tact in dealing with others at home. Don't pick a quarrel with anyone or respond to their teasing. Avoid the social tonight where there could be arguments. Dine out tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Take no risks where money is concerned and you gain the respect of higher-ups. The evening is a good time to talk matters over with business experts. Obtain the data you need for best results.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who early in life has to learn to complete what has once been started, and then this life becomes a successful one. The fields of banking, real estate and business are fine here. sports are important. Give good religious training.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

FLIRT: (Q) I always find myself liking a grown-up man. I am 14 and an eighth grader but could pass for 19. When I get around a grown man that I like, it seems I am flirty. I am a Gemini and naturally flirtatious.

It isn't any heavy flirting—just a smile or something like that. Right now I find myself liking two men. Both of them are cute and not married—Help in Virginia.

(A) Many 14-year-old girls tend to be flirtatious. But those who are wise restrict their attentions to boys their own age or a little older—bevs they know. These boys do not misunderstand them.

A grown man is likely to misunderstand a teenager who gives him the impression she is very fond of him. Stick with the boys your age. Leave the grown men to women their age.

VIEWS AT 17: (Q) We are two 17-year-old guys and we want to voice our opinions about the attention-getting ways of girls at our school. They seem to think that boys are attracted by vulgar language and over-aggressiveness.

They also seem to think that getting drunk and smoking dope are attractive to guys. Well, we want them to realize how WRONG they are. This kind of girl may think she's impressing us, but she's only losing our respect.

We would like to see the girls at our school gain some pride in themselves, and let US make the moves.

It would also be nice to see some dresses instead of the sloppy jeans they always wear. When we find girls who can be themselves and not worry about being the life of the party, we will start to date them—Nauseated in New Jersey.

(A) You have some very good points, but you are a little preachy in presenting them.

Girls like to be talked to honestly and frankly. It is not necessary, though, to be "holier than thou" when you talk to them.

I also wonder, too, if there aren't quite a few clean and decent girls—worth dating—in your school. Almost every school has a good supply of girls like that.

Kissinger, Tho Meeting Ruled Out at Present

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam's deputy foreign minister today ruled out a meeting soon between Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho, saying: "The atmosphere is not favorable at present."

Nguyen Co Thach made the comment to newsmen as he left for Hanoi after three meetings with U.S. Deputy Asst. Secretary of State William Sullivan to review the cease-fire situation in Vietnam.

Sources at the White House said last week that the meeting between Sullivan and Thach would be the prelude to another meeting between President Nixon's national security adviser and the North Vietnamese Politburo member with whom he negotiated the cease-fire agreement.

Soviet May Day Gets Underway

MOSCOW (AP) — Leonid I. Brezhnev kicked off the annual May Day parade through Red Square today with a speech emphasizing détente with the United States, Western Europe and Japan.

Speaking from Lenin's red granite tomb, the general secretary of the Soviet Communist party told the thousands massed in the square that recent Soviet foreign policy was part of a "policy of peace."

Brezhnev specifically mentioned improving relations with France, West Germany "and other European countries" and added: "From the same position, we approach such states as the United States of America."

"We will promote in the future favorable development of Soviet-American relations on the basis of mutual respect and mutual benefit," he declared.

Brezhnev said this also was the rationale for Soviet détente with Japan.

The party leader said, however, that the Soviet Union must remain vigilant against "forces hostile to peace."

"Struggling for a lasting peace, we do not forget that forces hostile to peace have not laid down their arms," he said.

"We remember the machinations of aggressive circles and maintain a high state of vigilance. On this bright day of May"

Brezhnev was awarded a Lenin Peace Prize as a prelude to the May Day celebration, enhancing his standing as the No. 1 member of the Soviet "collective leadership."

The Lenin prizes are awarded annually for "strengthening peace among the peoples" and usually go to foreigners. Brezhnev was the first Politburo member to win one since Nikita Khrushchev in 1959 and the only Russian picked by the prize committee this year. The others honored were Chilean President Salvador Allende; Enrique Pastorino, the Uruguayan president of the World Federation of Trade Unions; and British author James Aldridge.

Rogers Explains Indochina Bombing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — ground troops and prisoners of war are home.

Rogers claimed Nixon derives his power to bomb from a section of the Constitution giving him authority to negotiate with foreign governments.

Since North Vietnamese are violating the Jan. 29 cease-fire agreement that the administration has negotiated, Rogers claimed the administration can undertake military action to give Hanoi an incentive to give the agreement.

Those who argue that air strikes must cease because of the Constitution are saying the Constitution "contains an automatic self-destruct mechanism designed to destroy what has been so painfully achieved" at the negotiating table, Rogers said.

Rogers steadfastly denied that, by bombing in support of the Lon Nol government in Cambodia, the United States is undertaking a defense commitment that will prevent it from leaving until insurgent forces have been defeated.

The strikes, he contended "do not represent a commitment by the United States to the defense of Cambodia as such but instead represent a meaningful interim action to bring about compliance" with Article 20 of the peace agreement barring North Vietnamese and other foreign troops from Cambodia.

If the North Vietnamese left Cambodia, Rogers said, the administration would no longer have a constitutional justification to bomb.

But as long as they remain there, they threaten "the right of self-determination of the South Vietnamese people, which is guaranteed by the agreement."

Senators who have questioned the President's constitutional authority to continue bombing in Indochina were handed Rogers' statement during a hearing Monday. They asked Rogers to return later to discuss it in detail.

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., urged the administration to get explicit congressional approval for the air action in Cambodia, rather than rely on past congressional action authorizing the Vietnam war as the basis for a renewed air war.

Jets Resume Phnom Penh Bombing

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — U.S. Air Force Phantom jets resumed bombing raids around Phnom Penh today after a one-day respite, striking targets field reports placed about five miles east of the capital.

The raids were aimed at targets in marshes where Communist troops retreated after a 1,500-man government force routed them from the east bank of the Mekong River.

Witnesses watched as the planes dived out of thick clouds hanging over Phnom Penh and its suburbs to carry out the attacks, centered around the village of Prek Luong.

The heavy U.S. air activity today was a follow-up to a Monday drive by 1,500 Cambodian troops that cleared a three-mile stretch on the Mekong's east bank opposite Phnom Penh of Communist infiltrators.

Military sources said the government drive had thwarted the gravest threat to Phnom Penh by Communists since U.S. troops exactly three years ago today staged an "incursion" to block a large-scale Communist offensive on the capital.

The Cambodian command said the country's military position improved on two fronts Monday with the clearing operation along the Mekong and a government ground offensive near the provincial capital of Takeo on Highway 2, about 55 miles south of Phnom Penh.

Command spokesmen said today the "most significant" battlefield region was around Takeo. They reported heavy fighting less than two miles northeast of the city, which has been surrounded for more than a month by Communist troops.

The command said government forces at Takeo turned back an attack late Monday by Communists at a cost of one Cambodian troop dead and five wounded. Communist casualties were not known.

Following the clearing operation Monday along the banks of the Mekong, the area was quiet for the first time in nearly a week. Field reports said there was no resistance as the government troops combed the area for rebels.

Despite the apparent success of the Mekong operation, U.S. officials in Phnom Penh said they still feared the Communists might launch a terrorist campaign in the capital for its psychological effect on the thousands of refugees who have swollen the normal 1.2 million population to nearly two million.

In the face of the Communist threat, diplomatic sources said the U.S. Embassy had nearly completed a quiet, step-by-step evacuation of all dependents of embassy personnel and that the embassy is considering advising other Americans in Phnom Penh to remove their wives and children.

Nixon, Brandt Meeting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon meets with German Chancellor Willy Brandt today after pledging to maintain the momentum of his foreign policy despite the wounds suffered by his administration in the Watergate affair.

The President, in his speech Monday night, accepting the responsibility but not the blame for Watergate, mentioned his talks with Brandt as well as his forthcoming summit conference with Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev, as examples of the "larger things" to which he wants to turn his attention now.

Nixon and Brandt, in addition to this morning's session, will dine together at the White House tonight and confer again Wednesday morning before the chancellor addresses the National Press Club.

The President made it clear that he was aware of speculation that the crippling effect of Watergate and domestic politics might render him less effective in international affairs. He made it clear that he did not intend to let that happen and that this was one of the big reasons he was determined to "maintain the integrity of the White House."

It was announced Monday that presidential advisor Henry A. Kissinger would meet Friday in Moscow with Soviet officials to discuss arrangements for the Brezhnev visit to Washington, which is tentatively scheduled to take place in late June. Nixon also has invited French President Georges Pompidou to meet him somewhere in the Western Hemisphere prior to the Soviet-American summit.

Nixon and Brandt were expected to discuss a whole range of measures being taken to end the cold war in Europe and deal with the Soviet Union on a more cooperative basis.

Flood Victims Survey Damage

By United Press International

homes and at least 11 million acres of land—much of it rich farm land—have been inundated by the river's muddy water.

"We had flows in '43, '44 and '51," said Mrs. Lorch, a 55-year resident of St. Mary's, "but this is the first time you've had to crest batter the little river use boots to get to the northern end."

The scene was much the same in many areas of the seven Mississippi Valley states, where the rampaging river has surged over its banks, shattering dikes and levees and foundations," she said. "Some caused damages estimated at tens of thousands of families ing them. They say they'll have been driven from their never come back."

"When you've lived here all your life and look at this mess, you could just cry," said Mrs. Henry Lorch, city clerk at St. Mary's, Mo., as she watched the Mississippi Rivers' record crest batter the little river use boots to get to the northern end.
